EASTER SEAL LETTERS ASK ANNUAL GIFTS

Nearly 7,000 letters to individuals and organizations throughout the county were in the mail today carrying Easter Seals and a letter of appeal for donations from the Adams County Society for Crippled Children and Adults.

The letter accompanying the seals is signed by the Rev. Dr. M. R. Hamsher, Gettysburg R. 2, Easter Seal sale chairman for the county organization.

The funds from the Easter seal sale each year furnishes the chief source of funds for the society's year-round program.

In his letter Dr. Hamsher says: "Each Easter Seal is a reminder of an urgent need and an invitation to share in meeting that need.

Service To Handicapped

"The Adams County Society for Crippled Children and Adults, in cooperation with the Pennsylvania society, has served those who have been handicapped by arthritis, cerebral palsy, poliomyelitis, multiple sclerosis, muscular dystrophy, speech disorders and orthopedic condition of other kinds. It has witnessed excellent results."

Dr. Hamsher then points out that braces, corrective shoes, artificial limbs, therapy treatments, summer camping for crippled youngsters and transportation to clinics are costly and adds: "Your generous gifts will help to enlarge and improve this service to the handicapped."

A small percentage of the funds raised through the seal sale in the county goes to the state and national societies for crippled children to help finance their summer camping and other service programs and to advance research in the battle against crippling diseases.

Mrs. Franklin R. Bigham, Gettysburg, is president of the county society.

Suitcases Get Lift, Hitchhikers Don't

Two hitchhiking U.S. Marines enroute to Harrisburg Friday evening were offered a ride by a 70-year-old man but after he stopped for gasoline at Swope's service station, Carlisle St., he drove off while they were walking around the station.

William Freeman, Elmira, N. Y., and his unidentified friend told borough police their coats and suit cases were in the car. The local officers notified the state police substation who sent a teletype message to the Harrisburg troopers. No word has been received here whether the elderly driver has been located.

GETTYSBURG'S BILL FOR LOCAL TAX $343,743

Gettysburg taxpayers paid $343,743.29 during 1958 to support their own and county government, the schol district and institution district, according to the annual report of Tax Collector J. Herbert Welkert filed with the county clerk of courts.

The 13-mill borough tax brought $67,023.02 to the borough treasury. The 36-mill and $10 per capita school tax secured $212,748. The county obtained $48,424.08 on its 6½ mills on real estate and occupations and four mills on personal property and the institution district's three-mill tax brought in $15,548.19.

The report showed most Gettysburgians paid their taxes quickly. A total of $302,618.84 of the bill was paid while the discount was allowed and as a result the taxpayers saved $6,175.89.

$10,612 Outstanding

A total of $26,932.18 in taxes was paid while the collection was at face value and $5,739.01 was paid when there was a penalty for late payment. The latecomers were penalized a total of $274.27.

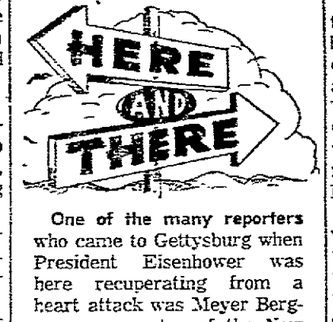

At the end of the year there was still $10,612.03 to collect of which $9,073.63 was school tax.

The tax collection was based on a valuation of $5,334,114 for both real estate and occupations. The amount listed as the real estate valuation on which the millage was based was $4,964,635. The report shows there are 1,710 pieces of taxable property in the town. There are 3,108 persons on which an occupation tax is assessed and 4,095 who are sent a bill for the $10 per person head tax of the school district.

According to the report, Gettysburg taxpayers own $3,746,008 worth of stocks, bonds, mortgages, etc., which are taxable under the county's four-mill personal property tax.

Those holding taxable personal property paid $14,432.92 of the $14,985.97 tax at the discount rate. $218.16 worth was paid at face value and $40.34 was paid during

One of the many reporters who came to Gettysburg when President Eisenhower was here recuperating from a heart attack was Meyer Berger, ace reporter of the New York Times. He was a quiet, unassuming gentleman and went about his business almost without notice.

One of his finest pieces was his voluminous book on the history of the New York Times, highly regarded by all critics. Recently Mr. Berger passed away. At his funeral his city editor delivered the eulogy. This was most unusual. Frank S. Adams summarized the gentle life and great work of Berger, the columnist-reporter, this way:

"The fun has gone from the city room. Sweet, gentle Mike Berger is gone. Unselfish Mike Berger, who signed more bad notes and gave up more soft touches than anyone else. Kind Mike Berger, who did more favors for scrubwomen and elevator operators, porters, copy boys and even complete strangers, than anyone else would have dreamed of.

"Impish Mike Berger, delighting his fellow reporters with some wild, incredible yarn that always turned out to be true; rousing them to great gusts of Rabelaisian laughter

Beck Gets 5 Years, Fined $60,000 Scored By Court

TACOMA, Wash. (AP)—Former Teamster Union President Dave Beck received a five year sentence and $60,000 fine Friday for income tax evasion, plus a double-barreled denunciation from the judge.

"The exposure of Mr. Beck's insatiable greed, resulting in his fall from high place, is a sad and shocking story," said U.S. District Judge George Boldt, in a scathing, 20-minute lecture before passing sentence.

Beck quickly posted $70,861 to cover the fine and court costs and was released. After his conviction Feb. 19, Beck spent a night behind bars for the first time in his life before appeal bond was set.

A motion for a new trial was denied.

He was charged with evading $240,607 for the years 1950-53, but the government raised its estimate of the amount actually owed to $258,556. In addition to the fine and court costs, a 50 per cent fraud penalty of $129,318 and $96,936 in interest at 6 per cent brings the total to $555,911.

Beck, 64, stood calm and quiet, one hand clenched behind his back and the other in a trouser pocket, as the judge began his denouncement.

He refused two invitations to address the court. But later he told reporters, "I am not the first innocent person to be sentenced nor will I be the last."

He said he had authorized his attorneys to push the appeal, filed last week.

Army May Fire Satellite Past Moon Over Weekend

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The United States, flexing its missile muscles in a spectacular series of firings, is ready to try again to ram a satellite past the moon and into orbit around the sun.

Preliminaries in the big weekend space show were:

Launching of a powerful 80-foot Thor-Able rocket early today on a 5,000-mile ICBM nose cone recovery test.

Fire Missile Friday

Successful firing of a 22-foot Jupiter missile Friday over a 1,700-mile range to test its tactical ballistic shell, nose cone, engine, warhead and fusing system.

Launching of the Navy's Polaris nuclear submarine rocket Friday. The Navy later said the Polaris may have broken up soon after it disappeared into the clouds, although considerable test data was recorded. Three of four earlier Polaris firings were unsuccessful.

The Army moon rocket waiting to take the limelight was a four-stage Juno II — a Jupiter surmounted with three successive stages of Sergeant rockets.

Artificial Planet

Its star role will be to hurl a 13-pound satellite loaded with radiation equipment past the moon to become an artificial planet whirling around the sun.

The first and second stages of the Juno II rocket will be in a spinning bucket to give stability in flight. There will be 11 of the solid fuel Sergeant rockets in the second stage, three in the third. The fourth stage will be one Sergeant rocket to which the little satellite will be attached.

In Best Relation

The planes of the earth and moon are now in the best relation —with the moon about 220,000 miles from the earth.

The first Army moon-shoot last Dec. 6 climbed 64,000 miles. The Pioneer II rocket fired by the Air Force last Nov. 8 reached 71,000 miles.

The Thor-Able fired early today shot through the clouds with a brilliant flash at the start of the nose cone recovery test—the fifth of a series. The first four failed.

MRS. MISHLER, ON HOSPITAL'S STAFF 37 YRS., DIES ON FRIDAY

The Warner Hospital's oldest employe in point of service and age, Mrs. Anna Mishler, 94, died Friday afternoon at 3:12 o'clock at the hospital where she had been a patient since November 14.

She had been devoted to the hospital since 1921 and for 37 years had been its most loyal worker. She had continued active until about a year ago when infirmities more and more restricted her work. Last November she became ill and was moved from the nurses' home, which had been her home for years, to a room in the hospital.

MRS. MISHLER

First Bookkeeper

Mrs. Mishler became associated with the hospital when it opened in 1921, and she became its first bookkeeper. Her job soon became much more than bookkeeper and eventually she devoted most of her time to the sewing machine, turning out and repairing thousands of articles needed by the hospital.

As an example of the tremendous amount of work performed by Mrs. Mishler for the hospital, in her 90th year, she made 500 towels, 36 spiral sheets, six long stand covers, 36 glove pockets, eight pairs of leg drapes, 20 tonsil sheets, six large slings with tapes and rolled 500 yards of bandages for the operating room. She also made 12 table cloths and 72 kitchen towels for the dining room and sewed ends on 36 rubber sheets, covered 30 pillows and made 200 binders and 72 bedpan covers.

She was a charter member and

FEBRUARY WAS WARMER, DRIER THAN NORMAL

Although 24 of the 28 days this month saw below-freezing temperatures, the month's average was above normal and the month joined January in the list of months that received less than normal amounts of rain.

The mythical "normal" average for February days in Gettysburg is 31.6 degrees. The daily average this month was 32.73 degrees or 1.13 degrees above normal each day.

The low for the month was seven degrees above zero and that mark was reached three times during the month. The high was 63 degrees. There were four other days that saw the mercury climb into the 50's.

This month's average temperature was far above that for last February which was 27.4 degrees. February of 1958 had a low reading of two degrees above zero and 16 inches of snow. This month's snowfalls totaled two inches.

1959 Short On Rain

The average daily high reading this month was 42.25 degrees and the average low was 23.21 degrees.

Measurable amounts of rain or snow fell on 10 of the 28 days this month and totaled 2.23 inches of precipitation which is 0.33 inches short of normal. Last February's 16-inch snowfall brought its total precipitation to 2.9 inches, slightly above normal. This is the first February since 1955 to be short on rainfall.

February's total brings 1959 rainfall here to 4.7 inches which is 0.95 inches short of normal. January also was short on rain by almost two-thirds of an inch. It was colder than normal but far from setting any records for frigidity.

Fogs, sleet and glaze on highways were among the weather conditions noted at various times this month in Gettysburg.

Yank Skipper Says Russia May Have Damaged Cable

ARGENTIA, Nfld. (AP) — The U.S. naval lieutenant who searched the Novorossisk says the Soviet trawler "probably quite likely" had something to do with breaking transatlantic cables.

But, he emphasizes, "I don't know whether accidentally or intentionally."

Lt. Donald Sneely of Falls Church, Va., told a news conference here Friday night that the Soviets offered no resistance to his boarding party on Thursday and sailed away on being told to leave the Grand Banks area where five cables were broken.

In Sydney, N.S., the Eastern Telegraph and Telephone Co. said a patrol plane had sighted about 20 trawlers—15 of them Soviet—still operating in the area Friday. The pilot said the ships "just appear to be fishing."

Repair Job Delayed

Rough seas and drifting ice held up repairing of the cables. Two Western Union cableships are standing by but the weather forecast was gloomy for beginning work for some hours.

The Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda called the boarding illegal and the official Soviet news agency Tass described it as the "unlawful action of the American naval fleet in the open sea."

Neither gave any immediate indication whether the Soviets intend to make a formal diplomatic protest. If they do, they face a rebuff.

No Apology Involved

U.S. State Department press officer Lincoln White said in Washington "I don't think any apology is involved in any way, shape or form. This was not a hostile action, but an investigation clearly provided for under terms of a treaty."

The Soviet accounts of the boarding in the Grand Banks fishing grounds off Newfoundland made no mention of the 1884 treaty which permits inspection of the

"The Adams County Society for Crippled Children and Adults, in cooperation with the Pennsylvania society, has served those who have been handicapped by arthritis, cerebral palsy, poliomyelitis, multiple sclerosis, muscular dystrophy, speech disorders and orthopedic condition of other kinds. It has witnessed excellent results."

Dr. Hamsher then points out that braces, corrective shoes, artificial limbs, therapy treatments, summer camping for crippled youngsters and transportation to clinics are costly and adds: "Your generous gifts will help to enlarge and improve this service to the handicapped."

A small percentage of the funds raised through the seal sale in the county goes to the state and national societies for crippled children to help finance their summer camping and other service programs and to advance research in the battle against crippling diseases.

Mrs. Franklin R. Bigham, Gettysburg, is president of the county society.

GETTYSBURG'S BILL FOR LOCAL TAX $343,743

Gettysburg taxpayers paid $343,743.29 during 1958 to support their own and county government, the schol district and institution district, according to the annual report of Tax Collector J. Herbert Weikert filed with the county clerk of courts.

The 13-mill borough tax brought $67,023.02 to the borough treasury. The 36-mill and $10 per capita school tax secured $212,748. The county obtained $48,424.08 on its 6½ mills on real estate and occupations and four mills on personal praperty and the institution district's three-mill tax brought in $15,548.19.

The report showed most Gettysburgians paid their taxes quickly. A total of $302,618.84 of the bill was paid while the discount was allowed and as a result the taxpayers saved $6,175.89.

$10,612 Outstanding

A total of $26,932.18 in taxes was paid while the collection was at face value and $5,739.01 was paid when there was a penalty for late payment. The latecomers were penalized a total of $274.27.

At the end of the year there was still $10,612.03 to collect of which $9,073.63 was school tax.

The tax collection was based on a valuation of $5,334,114 for both real estate and occupations. The amount listed as the real estate valuation on which the millage was based was $4,964,635. The report shows there are 1,710 pieces of taxable property in the town. There are 3,108 persons on which an occupation tax is assessed and 4,095 who are sent a bill for the $10 per person head tax of the school district.

According to the report, Gettysburg taxpayers own $3,746,008 worth of stocks, bonds, mortgages, etc., which are taxable under the county's four-mill personal property tax.

Those holding taxable personal property paid $14,432.92 of the $14,985.97 tax at the discount rate. $218.16 worth was paid at face value and $40.34 was paid during

One of the many reporters who came to Gettysburg when President Eisenhower was here recuperating from a heart attack was Meyer Berger, ace reporter of the New York Times. He was a quiet, unassuming gentleman and went about his business almost without notice.

One of his finest pieces was his voluminous book on the history of the New York Times, highly regarded by all critics. Recently Mr. Berger passed away. At his funeral his city editor delivered the eulogy. This was most unusual. Frank S. Adams summarized the gentle life and great work of Berger, the columnist-reporter, this way:

"The fun has gone from the city room. Sweet, gentle Mike Berger is gone. Unselfish Mike Berger, who signed more bad notes and gave up more soft touches than anyone else. Kind Mike Berger, who did more favors for scrubwomen and elevator operators, porters, copy boys and even complete strangers, than anyone else would have dreamed of.

"Impish Mike Berger, delighting his fellow reporters with some wild, incredible yarn that always turned out to be true; rousing them to great gusts of Rabelaisian laughter

Beck Gets 5 Years, Fined $60,000 Scored By Court

TACOMA, Wash. (AP)—Former Teamster Union President Dave Beck received a five year sentence and $60,000 fine Friday for income tax evasion, plus a double-barreled denunciation from the judge.

"The exposure of Mr. Beck's insatiable greed, resulting in his fall from high place, is a sad and shocking story," said U.S. District Judge George Boldt, in a scathing, 20-minute lecture before passing sentence.

Beck quickly posted $70,961 to cover the fine and court costs and was released. After his conviction Feb. 19, Beck spent a night behind bars for the first time in his life before appeal bond was set.

A motion for a new trial was denied.

He was charged with evading $240,607 for the years 1950-53, but the government raised its estimate of the amount actually owed to $258,636. In addition to the fine and court costs, a 50 per cent fraud penalty of $129,318 and $96,996 in interest at 6 per cent brings the total to $555,911.

Beck, 64, stood calm and quiet, one hand clenched behind his back and the other in a trouser pocket, as the judge began his denouncement.

He refused two invitations to address the court. But later he told reporters, "I am not the first innocent person to be sentenced nor will I be the last."

He said he had authorized his attorneys to push the appeal, filed last week.

Army May Fire Satellite Past Moon Over Weekend

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The United States, flexing its missile muscles in a spectacular series of firings, is ready to try again to ram a satellite past the moon and into orbit around the sun.

Preliminaries in the big weekend space show were:

Launching of a powerful 80-foot Thor-Able rocket early today on a 5,000-mile ICBM nose cone recovery test.

Fire Missile Friday

Successful firing of a 28-foot Jupiter missile Friday over a 1,700-mile range to test its tactical ballistic shell, nose cone, engine, warhead and fusing system.

Launching of the Navy's Polaris nuclear submarine rocket Friday. The Navy later said the Polaris may have broken up soon after it disappeared into the clouds, although considerable test data was recorded. Three of four earlier Polaris firings were unsuccessful.

The Army moon rocket waiting to take the limelight was a four-stage Juno II — a Jupiter surmounted with three successive stages of Sergeant rockets.

Artificial Planet

Its star role will be to hurl a 13-pound satellite loaded with radiation equipment past the moon to become an artificial planet whirling around the sun.

The first and second stages of the Juno II rocket will be in a spinning bucket to give stability in flight. There will be 11 of the solid fuel Sergeant rockets in the second stage, three in the third. The fourth stage will be one Sergeant rocket to which the little satellite will be attached.

In Best Relation

The planes of the earth and moon are now in the best relation —with the moon about 220,000 miles from the earth.

The first Army moon-shoot last Dec. 6 climbed 64,000 miles. The Pioneer II rocket fired by the Air Force last Nov. 8 reached 71,000 miles.

The Thor-Able fired early today shot through the clouds with a brilliant flash at the start of the nose cone recovery test—the fifth of a series. The first four failed.

MRS. MISHLER, ON HOSPITAL'S STAFF 37 YRS., DIES ON FRIDAY

The Warner Hospital's oldest employe in point of service and age, Mrs. Anna Mishler, 94, died Friday afternoon at 3:12 o'clock at the hospital where she had been a patient since November 14.

She had been devoted to the hospital since 1921 and for 37 years had been its most loyal worker. She had continued active until about a year ago when infirmities more and more restricted her work. Last November she became ill and was moved from the nurses' home, which had been her home for years, to a room in the hospital.

MRS. MISHLER

First Bookkeeper

Mrs. Mishler became associated with the hospital when it opened in 1921, and she became its first bookkeeper. Her job soon became much more than bookkeeper and eventually she devoted most of her time to the sewing machine, turning out and repairing thousands of articles needed by the hospital.

As an example of the tremendous amount of work performed by Mrs. Mishler for the hospital, in her 90th year, she made 500 towels, 36 spiral sheets, six long stand covers, 36 glove pockets, eight pairs of leg drapes, 20 tonsil sheets, six large slings with tapes and rolled 500 yards of bandages for the operating room. She also made 12 table cloths and 72 kitchen towels for the dining room and sewed ends on 36 rubber sheets, covered 30 pillows and made 200 binders and 72 bedpan covers.

FEBRUARY WAS WARMER, DRIER THAN NORMAL

Although 24 of the 28 days this month saw below-freezing temperatures, the month's average was above normal and the month joined January in the list of months that received less than normal amounts of rain.

The mythical "normal" average for February days in Gettysburg is 31.6 degrees. The daily average this month was 32.73 degrees or 1.13 degrees above normal each day.

The low for the month was seven degrees above zero and that mark was reached three times during the month. The high was 63 degrees. There were four other days that saw the mercury climb into the 50's.

This month's average temperature was far above that for last February which was 27.4 degrees. February of 1958 had a low reading of two degrees above zero and 16 inches of snow. This month's snowfalls totaled two inches.

1959 Short On Rain

The average daily high reading this month was 42.25 degrees and the average low was 23.21 degrees.

Measurable amounts of rain or snow fell on 10 of the 28 days this month and totaled 2.23 inches of precipitation which is 0.33 inches short of normal. Last February's 16-inch snowfall brought its total precipitation to 2.9 inches, slightly above normal. This is the first February since 1955 to be short on rainfall.

February's total brings 1959 rainfall here to 4.7 inches which is 0.95 inches short of normal. January also was short on rain by almost two-thirds of an inch. It was colder than normal but far from setting any records for frigidity.

Fogs, sleet and glaze on highways were among the weather conditions noted at various times this month in Gettysburg.

Yank Skipper Says Russia May Have Damaged Cable

ARGENTIA, Nfld. (AP) — The U.S. naval lieutenant who searched the Novorossisk says the Soviet trawler "probably quite likely" had something to do with breaking transatlantic cables.

But, he emphasizes, "I don't know whether accidentally or intentionally."

Lt. Donald Sheely of Falls Church, Va., told a news conference here Friday night that the Soviets offered no resistance to his boarding party on Thursday and sailed away on being told to leave the Grand Banks area where five cables were broken.

In Sydney, N.S., the Eastern Telegraph and Telephone Co. said a patrol plane had sighted about 20 trawlers—15 of them Soviet—still operating in the area Friday. The pilot said the ships "just appear to be fishing."

Repair Job Delayed

Rough seas and drifting ice held up repairing of the cables. Two Western Union cableships are standing by but the weather forecast was gloomy for beginning work for some hours.

The Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda called the boarding illegal and the official Soviet news agency Tass described it as the "unlawful action of the American naval fleet in the open sea."

Neither gave any immediate indication whether the Soviets intend to make a formal diplomatic protest. If they do, they face a rebuff.

No Apology Involved

U.S. State Department press officer Lincoln White said in Washington "I don't think any apology is involved in any way, shape or form. This was not a hostile action, but an investigation clearly provided for under terms of a treaty."

The Soviet accounts of the boarding in the Grand Banks fishing grounds off Newfoundland made no mention of the 1884 treaty which permits inspection of the

Discuss Financing With Your Banker When Buying Home

After months of searching, you have found your "dream house." Unless you are one of the fortunate few with a large enough nest egg to buy the house outright, you are now in the market for a mortgage loan.

At this point, you should realize that granting mortgage loans is among the reasons commercial banks and other reliable lending agencies are in business.

But every mortgage transaction involves individual problems of financing. It will pay you to go to your local banker, explain your parficular problems, investigate the terms, ask questions and talk over the matter in detail. In this way you will be able to find the type of loan best suited to your particular needs.

Eight Questions

Before you obligate yourself in any mortgage, the Savings and Mortgage Division of the American Bankers Assn. suggests you know the answers to the following important questions:

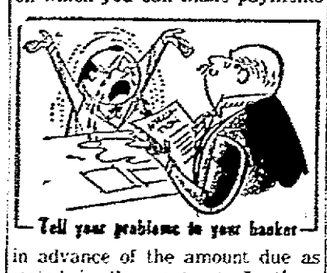

How soon can you obtain the loan? Speed of obtaining a loan is often very important especially if you've signed a binder on a house and have been given only 30 to 60 days to obtain a mortgage. Bear in mind that FHA and VA loans may take longer than others.

What are the terms of the mortgage? What are the interest rates? The interest rate on GI loans was recently increased from 4½ to 4¾ per cent to open up the source of money for veterans loans. How many years will the loan run? Can this period be extended at a later date if desired? Approximately how much total interest will you be paying under the present terms of the mortgage? What is the amount of monthly payments? Does the mortgage loan have a period of grace similar to insurance policies for failure to pay on time? Is there a penalty for failing to pay promptly?

How are taxes paid? Do you pay your own taxes or does the bank take care of it for you? Can tax money be included in the monthly payments to your bank?

What about insurance? Is a monthly deposit of funds required to pay insurance? What kind of insurance must you carry and how much?

Are there pre-payment rights? If you pay off the loan as soon as possible, you will save on interest costs and build up your equity in the property much faster. You should find out the basis on which you can make payments in advance of the amount due as stated in the contract. Is there any penalty for advance payments? Some loans have this claus. Can you pay off the loan in full prior to its maturity? Will pre-payments be credited as regular payments at a future time if you desire? In case prepayments are allowed, will you pay interest only on the balance due?

When are payments due? Be sure to find out if you receive notification of due date.

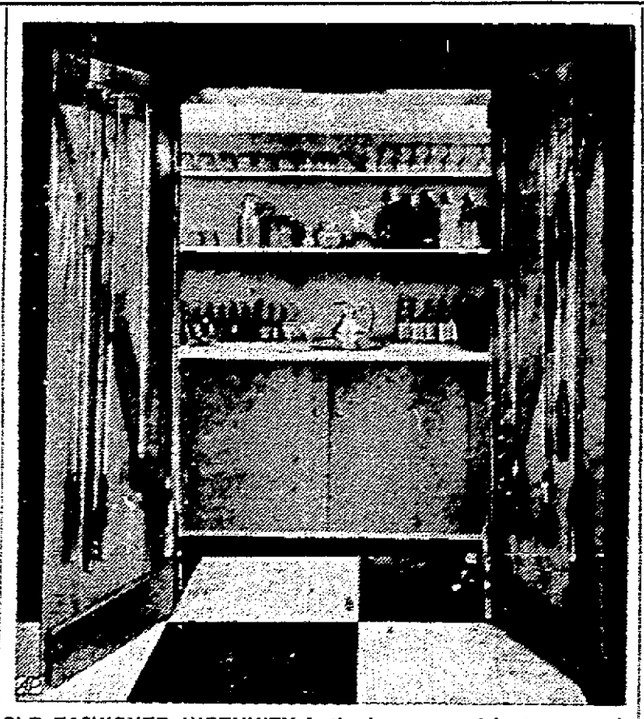

What about "preliminary" costs? If you are buying a home, you will incur some preliminary costs such as appraisal fees, loan fees of your lending agency, revenue stamps and notary fees, mortgage and deed recording fees, legal charges for examining title to the property, pro rata insurance and property taxes already paid by the seller for which you must repay him, survey of property to establish property lines, if needed. If you are building a home, your preliminary costs could include the above plus cost of plans or architect's services, interest on the loan advances to contractors, premiums for insurance, and inspection fees. You should determine in advance just approximately what these preliminary costs will amount to, when they have to be paid, and if they can be included in the loan or have to be paid separately.

What about "extra" costs? These include such expenses as landscaping, laundry and kitchen equipment (or repair or modernization if an existing house has been purchased). Find out if these extra costs are included in your loan; otherwise, they must be paid from your savings.

If you happen to be buying a house with an existing mortgage which you are willing to assume, be certain that you understand the terms of the loan as previously made, as well as the terms of the purchased contract. Weigh these terms against your budget for housing to make certain you are financially able to handle the obligations.

In taking on existing indebtedness, have the contract examined carefully by someone who is equally qualified to advise you. Your local banker will be glad to advise you in this matter and you should also seek legal advice about the legality of the title, conditions of the loan, terms of the general contract and the agreement on occupancy.

While you can reasonably hope your income will increase over the years do not dismiss the possibility that it may also lessen some years.

OLD FASHIONED INGENUITY is the homeowners' best weapon in improving or modernizing his home. Here is an excellent example of how one ingenious father put it to work. In building a family recreation room, he used furniture and materials that can take hard wear. The giant checkerboard pattern of the tile flooring was chosen to give the illusion of more generous proportions. And he found a decorative and practical answer to a tough storage problem by setting the family fishing rods in brackets attached to the pantry doors.

COSMETICS FIRM TO GET MBS NETWORK

NEW YORK (AP) — Negotiations are under way for a Hollywood cosmetics firm to take over the Mutual Broadcasting System radio network.

Factor was quoted as saying his cosmetics firm had reached a tentative agreement with Hal Roach Jr., Mutual's chairman.

Mutual holds affiliation contracts with 452 radio stations. It owns none of them outright, but services them with news and programs.

Roach is president of the Scranton Corp. and chairman of the board of the F. O. Jacobs Co., which owns a substantial portion of the Scranton company. The Mutual spokesman said the F. L. Jacobs would not be involved in the transaction.

Factor said his concern would not be taking any stock in either the Jacobs or Scranton firms.

The Securities and Exchange Commission suspended trading on the New York Stock Exchange of Jacobs Co. shares. The SEC charged Charles Guterma, then Jacobs' president but since resigned, with failure to file financial statements. The case is pending.

Franklin, N. H., is the birthplace of Daniel Webster and his home is maintained there as a museum. There also is an orphans' home on the Webster farm.

FUTURE JUST STARTED IN APPLIANCES

The heat pump, for example, is only a year away. This device draws the warmth of the earth into a home to heat it. A heat transfer coil is buried four feed deep outside the home. The pump is inside.

This unit, under development for three years, will heat in winter and act as an air conditioning unit in summer. Its cost is comparable to present home heating units.

Another improvement is a frost-free refrigerator that utilizes a fan system to reduce the moisture inside the box. The extracted moisture is channeled to the vegetable crisper.

Room lighting also is in for simplification. Four major firms have passed the experimental stages with a lamp based on the principle of electroluminescence.

Since its discovery by Prof. Georges Destrian of France in 1936, electroluminescence has largely been a laboratory curiosity. It is a phenomenon of science that produces light by exciting phosphors with alternating current.

Color Control

In practical application, wall panels one or two feet square will be used for illumination. The lamp is a thin metal plate — a coating of phosphor between coatings of ceramic surfaces. It is operated on alternating current of 110 volts. By changing the cycling from 60 to 1,000 per second, the color of light can be controlled, permitting any color of the rainbow to be produced.

IVY COHEN of Chicago explains how electroluminescence will cause a telephone dial to glow. The four-inch panel, coated with ceramics, phosphorus and insulation, is fitted behind the plexiglass dial.

Already electroluminescence is being applied to telephone dials. It makes the phone glow at night so you don't have to grope for it to answer it.

A Chicagoan named Irv Cohen, an engineering graduate of Illinois Institute of Technology, developed electroluminescent telephones, which are in production.

FIRE PATROLS NOT ENOUGH, STATE RULES

HARRISBURG (AP) — A Labor and Industry Department official Thursday told school representatives the department will not accept the use of fire patrol watchmen as a substitute for correction of fire hazards.

"The reports from the Chicago fire definitely bring out the fact that watchmen are not the answer," said John F. Dwyer, director of the Bureau of Inspection. "All the authorities who have studied the problem are opposed to the use of a patrol."

Dwyer presided at a round of hearings before the State Industrial Board on appeals from orders to school districts to correct fire hazards.

School officials at the hearing emphasized they wished to avoid expensive corrections to old school buildings they planned to close soon.

Representatives of the Bellefonte Area Joint School District agreed to make additional exits from all class rooms in two Bellefonte elementary schools within 30 days.

They are the Hublersburg Elementary School and the Jacksonville Elementary School.

Barrett Story To Play As A Musical

NEW YORK (AP) — The renowned Victorian romance of Elizabeth Barrett and Robert Browning is about to appear on Broadway's stage again—this time as a musical.

"The Barretts of Wimpole Street," which gave Katharine Cornell one of her greatest acting triumphs, is being transformed by Helen Thomas under the producing aegis of Jean Dalrymple.

In the new version, the sponsors report, there is to be less emphasis on the fiercely assertive papa of the original, and more development of other members of the famous family.

POST OFFICE SAYS BINGO IS LOTTERY

Noting a marked increase in questions about "bingo" as a lottery, Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield today released some questions and answers on this subject:

Q. Does state law making bingo legal within individual states make it possible to use the mails to advertise bingo so long as such advertisments go only within state borders?

A. No. Changes in state laws do not affect the federal statues restricting bingo. The Postal Lottery Law, Title 18, Section 1302, U. S. Code, prohibits any mailing of lottery matter—and bingo is considered a lottery—whether such mailing is a ticket, payment or advertisement. It makes no difference that such mailing is confined within the borders of the state where such lottery may be legalized.

Affects All Mail

Q. Does the restriction against lottery "advertisements" apply only to newspaper advertisements?

A. No. The restriction applies equally to magazines and periodicals which go through the United States mails, as well as to any form of notice advertising a lottery sent through the mails by individuals or organizations.

Q. One does not think of bingo as being in the same category as the big lotteries such as the Irish Sweepstakes. Why is bingo considered a "lottery?"

A. The law says it is a lottery. Under federal court decisions, the classic identifications of a lottery are "consideration, chance and prize." There is consideration in the form of the fee paid to play; there is no doubt that there is chance in bingo; and prizes of cash or merchandise are offered.

Circumvention Taboo

Q. Suppose the advertisement of a bingo game does not mention "bingo" at all? It is still prohibited in the mails?

A. Yes. Bingo, or similar games using different names, cannot be advertised in any matter carried through the mails. The law cannot be evaded by such words as "party" or "games" or "big game Wednesday night" or by merely printing "$." If the advertisement in fact relates to a lottery, it is a violation of the federal law.

Q. Are lotteries conducted for charity exempted in any way from the federal prohibitions?

A. None whatever. The Postal Lottery Law makes no exceptions in favor of lotteries conducted for worthy causes, or which might be regarded as a "little raffle."

"I hope," Mr. Summerfield commented, "that these answers will aid in public understanding of these laws, which the Post Office Department is duty bound to enforce."

LOS ANGELES (AP)—He was walking in his sleep, Clyde said. And he was dreaming. Dreaming that the house he was entering was his grandma's, and a meal of fried chicken and cookies awaited him.

It naturally came as a great surprise, Clyde said, when a woman's scream awakened him and a policeman arrested him on suspicion of burglary.

A judge listened kindly Friday and then sentenced Clyde McCall, 21, to 100 days in jail on a charge of trespassing.

MOVEMENT TO CHURCH UNITY 20 YEARS OLD

By TOM HENSHAW
AP Religion Writer

A Protestant-Catholic togetherness movement, long antedating Pope John XXIII's call for an ecumenical council, observes its 20th birthday this year.

The movement, called Una Sancta, has been goinng on so quietly and informally that its participants probably are surprised to find that they have been getting together for two decades.

Una Sancta, meaning "One Holy," is confined almost exclusively to the German-speaking countries of Europe. Its participants are chiefly Roman Catholic and Lutheran clergymen and lay theologians.

"Genuine Meeting"

Informal headquarters is the Benedictine Abbey in Niederaltaich, Germany. Its abbot, the Rt. Rev. Emmanuel Heufelder, says Una Sancta's goal "is not the conversion of the Protestant churches but a genuine meeting of Christians in order to find the will of God together in a new understanding."

"Both sides are learning to see the good in each other and to be neither anti-Catholic nor anti-Protestant. Differences will remain—not in a hostile manner—but as brothers looking to the same Christ."

Foundned in 1939

Una Sancta was founded in 1939 by a Roman Catholic priest, the Rev. Max Metzger, who was martyred by the German Nazis a few years later for his cooperation with Protestants in opposing Hitler.

The movement received added impetus in World War II when Catholic and Protestant clergy and lay leaders were forced to cooperate—and learn to respect each other—in exile and in concentration camps.

ST. LOUISANS TOP BOWLERS

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Two members of the famed St. Louis Falstaffs have established themselves as the top American Bowling Congress tournament performers over the long haul.

Steve Nagy was proclaimed the ABC 10-year average leader Friday and teammate Bill Welu was named the top averager over the last 5 years.

Nagy mustered an 1804 all-events skein as his team competed Friday in the minor events of the tournament. This gave Nagy a mean of 207-8 for the past decade, an all-time record for 10 years of ABC competition.

Welu went to the head of the 5-year category with a 212-41 average — another record. Al Faragalli of Patterson, N. J., had 209-16 last year for the previous high mark.

Welu's 1878 nine-game total did not figure in the top ten standings of the all-events, but his final block of 636 earned him fourth place in the singles.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A temperamental actress walked out on play rehearsals here. But the director says they'll just go on without her if she doesn't come back by Wednesday's opening.

"She's in two vital scenes with the leading actor and we can't cut them out," Director Norman Morton said.

"She just holds still and listens but there aren't many cats that will do that."

What if Flip doesn't show up? The show — "Visitor to a Small Planet" — will go on, "even if we have to use a teddy bear in the part," Morton said.

The telegram from the commanding officer stated that M/Sgt. Springer "died in Germany February 20 as a result of an intracerebral hemorrhage received in a vehicle accident."

M/Sgt. Springer would have had 20 years of service in the Air Force next November and, according to a report, was planning to retire. He had been in Germany for 10 months, stationed at Ziebruckin. His family has been in Germany since last June, living near Frankfurt. His wife is the former Anna Havner, daughter of the late J. Marion Mavner, of Creagerstown. They have five children, Elizabeth, 9; Scott, 10; Robert Jr., 11; Philip, 15, and Francis, 17.

M/Sgt. Springer is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton G. Springer, of Emmitsburg, and in addition to his parents, wife and children, is survived by the following brothers and sisters: Ross Springer, Basil, O.; Mrs. Ruth Davis, Pleasantville, O.; Mrs. Annabelle Martin, Frederick, R. 5; Mrs. Edna Twenty, Beaver Falls, Pa.; Mrs. Blanche Bowman, Spring Lake Park; Elmer Springer, Frederick, and Glenn Springer, Emmitsburg.

According to the telegram, the body would be shipped February 25, and the family would leave March 2 for the United States. Funeral services will be announced.

Pan Am. Airways Strike Is Averted

NEW YORK (AP) — A federal mediator announced today that a threatened strike Monday by 8,000 employes of Pan American World Airways has been averted.

Agreement "in principle" was reached after an all-night negotiating session, according to Francis A. O'Neill, Jr., a member of the National Mediation Board.

He said the Transport Workers Union negotiating committee will have to vote on the agreement, which will then go before the membership for rarification. No date was set for the ratification vote.

MANILA REVIEW

By JIM DAN HILL, Ph.D.
President, Wisconsin State College, Superior

EISENHOWER'S VISIT to Mexico was tops in diplomacy. It is too bad he cannot visit Manila.

Jim Hill

Popular, able, thoroughly honest, the late President Magsaysay had the situation well in hand, was bringing order out of chaos, orienting his people toward America.

His death in a plane accident almost two years ago put the Presidency up for grabs. Thus began a period of uncertain leadership and irresponsible promises that are now milestones about the neck of the stumbling republic.

If constitutional government should fail in the Philippines, it will be the greatest blow to Western prestige since the Japs made our armed forces look silly at Pearl Harbor.

In the Orient, nothing succeeds like success; and there is no disrepute greater than a noble institution that falls on its face. The Philippines have been America's Asiatic show case since the islands were liberated, 1898, and American took over with a promise of freedom under self-government "when they are ready."

THE TEN YEARS transitional period to freedom began in 1935. The war and Japanese occupation delayed the actual blossoming of the Republic of the Philippines until July 4, 1946.

While the Japs held the islands a few Communist - led, jungle guerrillas operated against Japanese supply lines (primarily because they wanted the supplies for themselves) under the ambitious title of People's Army Against Japan.

The returning, easy going Americans and the bright faced Philippine leaders of the New Republic thought anybody who had been against Japan must be good. This enabled the "Huks," to use their shorter name, to expand operations, propaganda and violence under a new title: "People's Liberation Army."

President Magsaysay's biggest achievement was getting this Red violence in hand. The spirit of a Communist nationalism revived and began growing like a weed through the hot period of impossible promises that followed his death.

DUE TO a peculiarity in their election laws, the new president and the new vice president do not belong to the same political party.

United States top side leadership at times becomes confused enough, with the president and his vice president working together. You may well imagine the bitter headlines, promises and counter promises were Vice President Nixon torpedoing the administration on hopes for entering the White House on Democratic votes. That is now happening in the Philippines — with Spanish trimmings. President Carlos P. Garcia is a Nacionalista. Vice President Diosdado Macapagal is a Liberalista. The principal difference between them appears to be that one party is in and has the patronage; and the other party is out and has no patronage.

THERE ARE THOSE who argue that America has kept her independence promises, and we may well now wash our hands of the whole affair and let them stew in their independence.

World affairs are not that simple. Enlightened self-interest, without arguing a higher, moral responsibility, dictates a policy of sympathy, understanding and aid.

The Philippines continue to be Western civilization's best and cheapest bastion of defense in Southeast Asia. Until the year 2046, America holds leases on Army, Navy and air bases There is a tight treaty of mutual assistance. The Philippine Republic is also a member of the United Nations and SEATO. America probably needs them as much or more than they need us.

CARLOS P. ROMULO, who is perhaps the Philippines' greatest living statesman, is Manila's ambassador to Washington. From the agitation between his president and vice president, he is seeking to soothe the situation by getting more Philippine jurisdiction over crimes committed on American service bases; have a voice in the use of the bases in the event of "local wars" (whatever they are) and to ask for the settlement of war claims and development leases aggregating about $900,000,000.

Perhaps these are padded. The State Department could be justified in some of the stalling that has been taking place. If so, have an honest and forthright scaling down of what it ought to be, and settle other differences in a spirit of equity and justice

The Day Christ Died

The author's detailed, hour-by-hour account of the most dramatic day in history started with 6 p.m. — the beginning of the Hebrew day — with Jesus and Disciples coming into Jerusalem for the Passover observance. At their gathering in an upper room of the home of the rich father of the Apostle Mark, for the supper of roast lamb, salad, fruits and red wine, Jesus astonished the Disciples, and heard a protest from Peter, because of one of His acts. Jesus took the basin, water and towel brought by a servant for the diners to cleanse their hands, and washed their feet. Having given them a lesson in humility and further instruction, He indicated His awareness — that His betrayer was near. When He told the Disciples that one of their company was plotting against Him, they looked at each other and looked away.

Now continue Mr. Bishop's vivid narration:

Leonardo da Vinci's world famous painting of The Last Supper, in which he took artistic license and arranged the diners in a single row. The original, painted in the refectory of the Dominican Convent of Santa Maria delle Grazie at Milan, has suffered ravages of time and no longer is as bright as this reproduction indicates.

8 P.M.
April 6, A.D. 30

THE Apostles sorrowed and worried. Jesus had to die. They know this because He had told them many times. But, like children gifted with exorbitant faith, they had been secretly certain that, when the time of trial arrived, Jesus would summon legions of avenging angels who would decimate His enemies.

"I tell you now before it comes to pass," Jesus said to the sorrowing men around Him, "so that when it has come to pass you may believe that I am He."

Then Jesus bowed His head and clasped His hands. He was a Man with an inner worry, a secret and shocking knowledge, and He remained thus for a moment and then blurted the words: "Amen, amen I say to you, one of you will betray Me."

"Is It I, Lord?"

Mouths hung open; a few glared angrily at one and all; some sat up as though ready to flee. Each Apostle began to tap his own bosom and beg: "Is it I, Lord? Is it I?"

Jesus did not answer. The feast, an hour old, was disrupted. Looking behind his Master's back, Peter caught the eye of young John and made mute pantomime. "Who is it of whom He speaks?" John, whose heart was so full of love that he had not learned to be fearful, looked up into the eyes of his Master and said blumly: "Lord, who is it?"

Jesus lifted His head, the eyes still full of anguish, and He whispered: "It is he to whom I will give the morsel after dipping it into the bowl."

Judas had stopped eating and was obviously as shocked as any of the rest of the company. He, too, had asked, in pained surprise: "Is it I, Lord?" and, like the others, he received no answer. Inwardly he trembled, feeling sure that someone in the entourage of the high priest had discussed the plot in the streets, or perhaps told a follower of Jesus that one of the Apostles had promised to deliver Him to Caiaphas in the dead of night. But did Jesus know who? Judas doubted it.

Jesus took a morsel and dipped it into a bowl of charoseth. He shook the loose wine from it and held it to Judas. The moneykeeper, who had not heard John ask the question — nor the whispered reply — looked pleased and held his mouth toward the tidbit and ate it. Judas regarded this as a mark of favor.

Smug, and now certain that he was not under suspicion, Judas asked again — this time not in concert with the others — "Is it I, Master?" Softly, the Nazarene murmured: "Thou has said it," which was an Aramean colloquialism meaning "yes," but meaning more than yes. It also meant "You have said it, not I." He would use this expressioon once more before He died.

Jesus Stares at Judas

Jesus continued to stare at Judas steadily, no rancor in His eyes, and He said: "That which you must do, do quickly."

Judas understood. Some of the others heard it, and thought that the Master had ordered Judas Iscariot to go out into the night and buy things for the festival, which had a week more to go.

The Judean pushed himself back on the low couch and stood. For a moment he looked down on the reclining figures of his friends and then, without adieu, he walked around the table, the leather purse swinging from his hand, and down the stairway and out into the night. Only three persons in the room knew that he had betrayed the Prince of Love — John, Peter and Jesus.

30 Pieces of Silver

Judas hurried out into the streets and walked north a street or two to the home of Caiaphas The Apostles did not mention the fact when they wrote about this later, but Judas had to earn the thirty pieces of silver which Caiaphas had promised, for this was the price of a slave. Actually, this was the "compensation price" for a slave killed by an ox. St. Matthew specifies "thirty pieces of silver," probably meaning thirty Hebrew shekels or the equivalent of 120 denarii. A denarius was the price of a day's labor for a common soldier or worker. The high priest had accepted the offer only if Judas could effect the arrest of Jesus when the multitudes of His followers were not about.

This was the time, and what better time than when He was already inside the walls of the city? The courtyards of Caiaphas and his father-in-law, Annas, adorned by a common gate, and a servant studied the glistening face of Judas under a flickering yard light and told him to wait.

Mean Judean Mercenary

It was near the third hour of the night watch when Caiaphas come out. The high priest was a dark, balding man who wore rich garments and affected a superior manner. Judas would have meant little to him on any occasion. Now he met him only on the chance that this mean little Judean mercenary might be ready to deliver up the Nazarene.

Caiaphas had small patience with his man. He asked by what right Judas expected an audience at this hour. The faithless one said that he bore good tidings, that Jesus and the Apostles were sitting at the Pasch this moment, only three throws of a stone away from where the high priest stood

Now Caiaphas was both pleased and worried. He had not expected the opportunity to take this spurious Messiah so quickly. No arrangements had been made. The temple guards could be summoned in ten minutes, but, in a case of this kind, it would be wise to ensure the co-operation of the Romans.

Paces Courtyard

The high priest, finger to lips, paced the courtyard. He, too, had a problem. In all Palestine there was only one man greater than Caiaphas, and this was Annas. His father-in-law was a maker and breaker of men.

When Jesus was eleven years of age, Annas had been appointed high priest by Publius Sulpicius Quirinus, who was then beginning his second term as Roman legate of all Syria. He became rich, influential beyond the boundaries of his country. Then, in succession, five of his sons became high priest. Now his son-in-law Caiaphas was in office, but Annas controlled the high priesthood and the temple markets.

Caiaphas asked Judas where the criminal was, and the Judean told the high priest the house. The high priest nodded with some surprise because he knew the father of Mark as a rich and substantial citizen of Jerusalem with considerable influence of the temple. One never knew where to look for Disciples of Jesus.

Tells Judas To Wait

Caiaphas told Judas to wait in the courtyard and, in a moment, he was alone. The high priest had lifted the hem of his costly garment and had hurried across the court to tell Annas the news and to get counsel.

In ten minutes, Caiaphas was back. He was curt now. The chief of the temple guards had been sent for and would arrive in a little while with a complement of men. They would wait with Judas for additional Roman legionaries. Caiaphas himself would be off in a moment to seek personal audience with the procurator, Pilate, and ask him to assign a centurion to the job of assisting in the raid on the upstairs room.

Judas was shocked. He had assumed that this was a small thing, a matter to be forgotten in the morning. Now this elegant personage had consulted the great Annas and had summoned, not one temple guard, but a group of them, and would now go, at this late hour, to consult with the representative of Caesar, who would assign a centurion, no less, and more soldiers.

"Love One Another"

The Pasch proceeded in the upper room. Eleven Apostles reclined with Jesus They dipped and ate. They washed their hands. They drank wine. When Jesus was silent they conversed animatedly When He spoke they fell silent.

"Dear children." He said softly, "a new commandment I give you. Love one another; as I love you, so I wan. you, too, to love one another. By this token all the world must know that you are My Disciples — by cherishing love for one another. Only a little while longer am I with you. You will miss Me and, as I told the Jews, so I tell you at present: where I am going you cannot come."

The others looked to Simon Peter. He bent across the back of his Messiah and, trying to speak quietly, said: "Lord, where are

"Follow Me Later"

Jesus turned His head across His own right shoulder to glance briefly at the face of His chief Disciple. "Where I am going," He said slowly, but loudly enough for all to hear, "you cannot at present follow Me. But you will follow Me later."

For a moment, Simon Peter digested this reply Not understanding that he could not go now, but would go later, he pressed one more question. "And why, Lord, cannot I follow You right now? I will lay down my life for You."

Jesus did not turn His head as He answered: "You will lay down your life for Me?" He shook His head from side to side. "Before cockcrow you will disown Me three times."

A Bit Of History About John Markley Murder

By B. F. M. MacPHERSON

The notes on the trial and execution of John Markley, the murder of John and Lydia Newey and their entire family, are continued at that time.

1. January 25, 1831 —

"Some of the clothes of Mr. Newey, lately murdered in Harbaugh's Valley, we learn, were found in the possession of John Markley, who was a few days since arrested in Baltimore, Maryland. The clothes were identified by a relative of Mr. Newey Markley has been committed for trial."

2. February 15, 1831 —

"Markley, the supposed murderer of the Newey family in Harbaugh's Valley, has been removed from Baltimore, Maryland, to Frederick, where he will receive his trial at the next term of the criminal Court, which commences in May. William Ross and Joseph Palmer, Esqrs., have been appointed counsel from the prisoner. James Dixon, Esq., will represent the State's interest, and prosecute the case."

3. April 19, 1831 —

Made No Confession

"As we expected, the reported confession of (John) Markley is without foundation. The 'Frederick Examiner' says '—it is vastly edifying and interesting, but, unfortunately, happens to be totally untrue. Markley has made no such confession.'"

John Markley, on more than one occasion, gave the authorities to understand that he was ready and willing to make a confession but always refused to follow through at the last minute. The same can be said regarding his accomplice in the crime — he never really acknowledged that others were involved but gave many hints as to the number and identity of his companions. It was generally thought that at least one other man took part in the murders for it would have been virtually impossible for Markley alone to have overcome an entire family that included two full grown men and a strong young boy. Also Mrs. George Flautt heard two men signaling on her way home the night the tragedy took place.

The first witness for the prosecution, when Markley went on trial for his life, was George Flautt, a neighbor of the murdered family. His testimony, in part, was as follows:— "I did not see the body of Mrs. Newey until after the neighbors came up and began throwing water on the fire. She lay on the bed downstairs — her head was burnt off — old Mr. Tressler (Mrs. Newey's father) was burnt up entirely — the infants were less burnt (the two little daughters of John and Lydia Newey) — the bound boy (John Coombes) was nearly consumed. I saw the linen of Mrs. Newey which had three holes in it — they looked as if they were made by a knife. The linen was bloody. I examined the stabs in the body of Mrs. Newey — particularly the ones in the abdomen — the cuts in the linen were crosswise. We applied the linen to the body and the holes in the linen corresponded to the wounds in the body.

Newey Is Warned

"There was a report in the neighborhood, before the Neweys were murdered, that Markley had been seen in the immediate vicinity, and Mr Newey was warned to be on his guard, for his house was to be burnt down."

The second witness was John Flautt, who was, apparently a son or brother of George Flautt. The testimony of this man was rather brief for, in the main, he merely corroborated the statements of the first witness Under questioning he (John Flautt) told the following story:— "I was at the fire and saw the wound in John Newey's head and thought the flesh was burnt off it — it was as little as it is now. I had a distinct view of the floor through the blaze of the fire; saw no blood. The floor was burnt away between me and where Newey lay, but none immediately about him (John Newey); the floor above was considerably burnt, and some small timbers had fallen to the lower floor where Newey lay — but none close to him. The house seemed to be set on fire at top and bottom at the same time, from the manner in which it was burning. There was no smoke in the room in which the bodies lay although the floor was burning. The floor lay very close to the ground (apparently there was no cellar under that part of the house), the bodies sank into the ground, and in different parts of the room. It was burnt into coal."

Three Stab Wounds

Jonas Manahan was the third person to give his testimony and what he had witnessed pertained to the cause of Mrs. Newey's death:— "I was present at the disinterment of Mrs. Newey's body, which took place the second day after burial (February 2, 1831). There were three stab wounds in her body; and the linen in which she was killed was put upon her and the cuts in it corresponded with the wounds in her body. Her body was still in a condition to show the nature of the wounds; one of them was a clear cut. I first saw Mrs. Newey's body in the house (Newey's); the linen was burnt off that part of the body exposed to the fire; the part cut was under and so protected from the fire. The wounds in Mrs. Newey's body were all very deep."

Daniel Bebehoof, the fourth witness, testified along the same lines, but also stated that he "was at the second inquest and was the person that compared the linen with the body, the cuts fitted exactly; they were clear cuts, across the threads. The linen was strong and could not have been torn in this manner but had to be cut."

"Corresponded Exactly"

James Manahan was also present when the linen of Mrs. Newey was compared with the body. He said ". . . they corresponded exactly, the three cuts with the three wounds; to be certain I put my finger into two of the wounds in Mrs. Newey's body and found them smooth clear cuts and very deep."

It will be remembered that John Markley, previous to the murder of the Newey family, was convicted in the court at Frederick, Maryland, on October 26, 1825, of burglary and theft on the testimony of John Newey, the deceased, and sentenced to the penitentiary for five years. At the conclusion of his trial on these charges, he made, while still in the court room, certain threats of vengeance against John Newey, his uncle. This was brought out during the murder trial by John King, the sixth witness for the prosecution, who testified:—

"At the time of John Markley's former conviction, he said here in the courthouse that he would have revenge. John Williams, at the Jail on the same day, said that Markley declared '—the State's Attorney and the Judges were no better than Newey (John) and the witnesses, or they would not have believed them, and if I (Markley) ever get out, I will have satisfaction if I have to kill and burn up the whole lot of them.' Witnesses said to him '—five years is a long time and you'll forget it.' He (Markley) swore he 'would never forget.'"

John Black Testifies

John Black, who lived four miles above Emmitsburg, Maryland "on the turnpike road leading towards Waynesburg, Pennsylvania," was called as a witness and testified that "Markley came to his (Black's) house December 21, 1830, and asked for supper and lodging. He stayed until after breakfast the next morning. He called himself John Markle, and left without paying. He (Markley) had no bundle of any kind. Said that he lived in the Middletown Valley It is only about seven and one-half miles from my house Black's to Newey's."

The state had established the been murdered. John Markley, the man on trial for the crime, had been shown to have a motive and to have made threats of vengeance. Now the prosecution was producing witnesses to prove that Markley was in the vicinity of the Newey home at the time the murders were committed and left the neighborhood immediately after the tragedy.

Barnard W. Wright was next called. He said he was a resident of Smith's Town in Washington County, Maryland. His story, in part, was as follows:— "The first Friday after Newey's murder, about sunset, Markley came to my house, about seven miles from Newey's. Another man with him. Markley had a knapsack roughly made, filled with clothing. He gave it to me to keep. They took supper and told me they come down from Huntingdon County, Pennsylvania. They arose before day. Markley pulled out his purse and I noticed it particularly and through it was the very purse that I saw John Newey have at my house about two weeks before."

LENTEN GUIDEPOSTS

THE ABUNDANCE IN YOU

By James A. Terrell
Los Angeles, California

Seven years ago I was last in sales in my office. As a stock broker and investment counselor, I solicited business in the best accepted traditions of selling. I tried to pry open the minds of my customers with the tools of high pressure, firm persuasion, awesome facts. This was very worse yet, the hard work; results were poor.

James A. Terrell

Financially, I was unable to meet the taxes on our home. My wife, a marriage counselor and a lecturer on psychology in the Los Angeles public schools, was contributing more than her share to our upkeep, and despite her expert advice, my ego was suffering great strain.

It was then, when hurting all over, that I began an earnest search for spiritual answers to my problems. For 44 years I had been a church member, and I still am. But somehow God had remained a Sunday acquaintance, unreal, shrouded in formality and very far away. Stunned by my defeats, I discovered I needed Him close at hand.

A Simple Method

Could I get God into my daily affairs? If so, how? Through inspirational reading and metaphysical study, I arrived at that day six years ago when I decided I could, and that the method I would use was simple: It could be wrapped up in six words.

"Salute the Christ in every person!"

In other words, I affirmed to myself that everyone I met had with him the Christ spirit . . . the essence of good . . . a part of God . . . however you want to phrase it. My recognition of this quality — in others and in myself — immediately put our relationship on a higher level.

Before making a call, for example, I would eliminate from my mind all thoughts of resistance and conflict. I would sit a few moments in my car and "salute" my prospective client. "If my proposition is right for him, he will know it," I would say to myself; "if it isn't, I don't want the business."

Inner Guidance

This method not only made me a better salesman, but it also gave me inner guidance, assurance, and gave my clients an invisible service — protection. I remember once when a client recommended me to a gentle, elderly lady who called at the office.

"I've never made an investment in my life," she confessed.

In earlier days my reaction would have been: "This is like taking candy from babies."

Instead, my new pledge to honor the Christ in every person took over within me. "Give me the perfect idea for her," I prayed. "She is not giving me money but putting it to work, and it will flow back to her as a good investment. If in any way it doesn't meet her need or is not a good idea, I release it now!"

Good Investments

As a result, the investments she made proved to be very good ones indeed.

Last year when I was made manager of the mutual fund department of my firm, I had the responsibility for training our young salesmen When they approached a client I advised them to say to themselves in advance: "I am here to render this customer a service. I salute the Christ in him and he in me, and in this spirit we conduct our business."

There were no instructions on how to beat the competition. Quite the contrary. When one of my leading salesmen raised the problem by saying: "But so-and-so is in on this deal and I'm afraid I won't get a chance to be of service," I told him what I had come to believe:

Not Easy

"Whatever is best for both of you no other person or condition can take from you. In a Divine plan there is enough to go around."

Sometimes when tempted to tear my hair over such daily irritations as lack of time, traffic, and conflicting personalities, I've had to realize the presence of Christ in turmoil. That hasn't been easy.

First, I affirm the fact that there is a certain rhythm to life and when one is a part of this rhythm, the frustrations and pressures of every day life diminish. Second, I declare myself receptive to this rhythm Third, I practice the presence of Christ in every situation — no matter how small it may seem.

In the beginning, my wife, J'Nevelyn, steeped in the intellectual theories of Freud, Adler, and Jung, tended to feel that my system was an over simplification. "You just can't solve all those problems with a six-word capsule," she said skeptically.

Deciding Factor

Then one morning she announced, "Well, I am going to try it, but only because I can see it works for you"

Although we had been happily married 17 years, some tensions and conflicts had built up in our home, and we had come to accept a kind of grayness as normal. Now, it was like stepping out into the sunshine.

"I think this business of seeing God in your partner is the deciding factor in a happy marriage" was the conclusion of my marriage counselor wife.

Economist Offers Tips On ApplianceBuying,Advises Plan Garden For Nutrition

By MRS. HELEN TUNISON
Associate Home Economist

Do the first signs of spring have you dreaming of your garden with its fresh, succulent vegetables? If so, put your dreams to work and plan what you will plant. Plan your garden so it will help you save money while you serve your family hearty, nutritious meals.

Mrs. Tunison

A good garden depends on good soil. When the soil provides needed nutrients, strong, healthy plants develop. People also need nutrients to help make them strong and healthy. Vegetables help provide these nutrients.

Dark green and deep yellow vegetables as broccoli, swiss chard, carrots and squash are especially good sources of vitamin A needed for healthy eyes and skin and shiny hair. Some vegetables as pepper and raw cabbage are good sources of vitamin C. This the vitamin that helps prevent bleeding gums, aching joints, and easy bruising. Other vegetables give added variety, interest and nutrients to meals.

Consider Needs

Planning your garden now can help you plant the right amounts of the vegetables your family needs. Estimate the amount of each vegetable your family will eat fresh and the amount you might plan to can or freeze. Try to introduce a new vegetable to your family this year. Make it one that will contribute vitamin A to their diet.

Further information on planting and good eating is found in the mimeograph, "Fruits and Vegetables for Your Family, Suggested Yearly Plan." For a free copy of this mimeograph call the Agriculture Extension Office, Courthouse, Gettysburg.

Learning Through Play

Play is a child's most fascinating activity. Through play, he experiences not only joy and pleasure, but also deep satisfaction

A child explores, experiments, and interprets the world around him as he plays. His playroom is his laboratory, and in it he comes to many useful conclusions.

To encourage your child to explore and experiment as he plays, choose his toys carefully Select playthings that stimulate creative activity in him. Good toys help develop skills, initiative, self-reliance and imagination.

The finest toys don't always come from the toy counter. A child often finds objects you normally discard attractive and useful. These include cardboard boxes, cartons, bottle caps, salt boxes with a pour spout, spools, string, scraps of fabric, wrapping paper, paper bags, tin cans with smooth edges and many other articles. An oatmeal box can make a fine silo, a shoe box a chicken house.

Some children play for hours with durable kitchen equipment and utensils. Items such as funnels, wooden spoons, scoops, sieves, pans, colanders, sprinklers, cups and butter molds add enjoyment to indoor play.

Service Important

Servicing of appliances is more important today than ever before. As appliances have become more automatic, they've become more complex. They are more easily thrown out of adjustment and repairs are more complicated.

Compare the wringer washer with the automatic washer. The wringer washer has few working parts. Its adjustment is simple. The homemaker controls the amount and temperature of water and length of wash and rinse cycles. With an automatic washer, sensitive controls take the place

By JIM DAN HILL, Ph.D.
President, Wisconsin State College, Superior

EISENHOWER'S VISIT to Mexico was tops in diplomacy. It is too bad he cannot visit Manila.

Jim Hill

Popular, able, thoroughly honest, the late President Magsaysay had the situation well in hand, was bringing order out of chaos, orienting his people toward America.

His death in a plane accident almost two years ago put the Presidency up for grabs. Thus began a period of uncertain leadership and irresponsible promises that are now milestones about the neck of the stumbling republic.

If constitutional government should fail in the Philippines, it will be the greatest blow to Western prestige since the Japs made our armed forces look silly at Pearl Harbor.

In the Orient, nothing succeeds like success; and there is no disrepute greater than a noble institution that falls on its face. The Philippines have been America's Asiatic show case since the islands were liberated, 1898, and American took over with a promise of freedom under self-government "when they are ready."

THE TEN YEARS transitional period to freedom began in 1935. The war and Japanese occupation delayed the actual blossoming of the Republic of the Philippines until July 4, 1946.

While the Japs held the islands a few Communist - led, jungle guerrillas operated against Japanese supply lines (primarily because they wanted the supplies for themselves) under the ambitious title of People's Army Against Japan.

The returning, easy going Americans and the bright faced Philippine leaders of the New Republic thought anybody who had been against Japan must be good. This enabled the "Huks," to use their shorter name, to expand operations, propaganda and violence under a new title: "People's Liberation Army."

President Magsaysay's biggest achievement was getting this Red violence in hand. The spirit of a Communist nationalism revived and began growing like a weed through the hot period of impossible promises that followed his death.

DUE TO a peculiarity in their election laws, the new president and the new vice president do not belong to the same political party.

United States top side leadership at times becomes confused enough, with the president and his vice president working together. You may well imagine the bitter headlines, promises and counter promises were Vice President Nixon torpedoing the administration on hopes for entering the White House on Democratic votes. That is now happening in the Philippines — with Spanish trimmings. President Carlos P. Garcia is a Nacionalista. Vice President Diosdado Macapagal is a Liberalista. The principal difference between them appears to be that one party is in and has the patronage; and the other party is out and has no patronage.

THERE ARE THOSE who argue that America has kept her independence promises, and we may well now wash our hands of the whole affair and let them stew in their independence.

World affairs are not that simple. Enlightened self-interest, without arguing a higher, moral responsibility, dictates a policy of sympathy, understanding and aid.

The Philippines continue to be Western civilization's best and cheapest bastion of defense in Southeast Asia. Until the year 2046, America holds leases on Army, Navy and air bases. There is a tight treaty of mutual assistance. The Philippine Republic is also a member of the United Nations and SEATO. America probably needs them as much or more than they need us.

CARLOS P. ROMULO, who is perhaps the Philippines' greatest living statesman, is Manila's ambassador to Washington. From the agitation between his president and vice president, he is seeking to soothe the situation by getting more Philippine jurisdiction over crimes committed on American service bases; have a voice in the use of the bases in the event of "local wars" (whatever they are) and to ask for the settlement of war claims and development leases aggregating about $900,000,000.

Perhaps these are padded. The State Department could be justified in some of the stalling that has been taking place. If so, have an honest and forthright scaling down of what it ought to be, and settle other differences in a spirit of equity and justice

The Day Christ Died

The author's detailed, hour-by-hour account of the most dramatic day in history started with 6 p.m. — the beginning of the Hebrew day — with Jesus and Disciples coming into Jerusalem for the Passover observance. At their gathering in an upper room of the home of the rich father of the Apostle Mark, for the supper of roast lamb, salad, fruits and red wine, Jesus astonished the Disciples, and heard a protest from Peter, because of one of His acts. Jesus took the basin, water and towel brought by a servant for the diners to cleanse their hands, and washed their feet. Having given them a lesson in humility and further instruction, He indicated His awareness — that His betrayer was near. When He told the Disciples that one of their company was plotting against Him, they looked at each other and looked away.

Now continue Mr. Bishop's vivid narration:

Leonardo da Vinci's world famous painting of The Last Supper, in which he took artistic license and arranged the diners in a single row. The original, painted in the refectory of the Dominican Convent of Santa Maria delle Grazie at Milan, has suffered ravages of time and no longer is as bright as this reproduction indicates.

8 P.M.
April 6, A.D. 30

THE Apostles sorrowed and worried. Jesus had to die. They know this because He had told them many times. But, like children gifted with exorbitant faith, they had been secretly certain that, when the time of trial arrived, Jesus would summon legions of avenging angels who would decimate His enemies.

"I tell you now before it comes to pass," Jesus said to the sorrowing men around Him, "so that when it has come to pass you may believe that I am He."

Then Jesus bowed His head and clasped His hands. He was a Man with an inner worry, a secret and shocking knowledge, and He remained thus for a moment and then blurted the words: "Amen, amen I say to you, one of you will betray Me."

"Is It I, Lord?"

Mouths hung open; a few glared angrily at one and all; some sat up as though ready to flee. Each Apostle began to tap his own bosom and beg: "Is it I, Lord? Is it I?"

Jesus did not answer. The feast, an hour old, was disrupted. Looking behind his Master's back, Peter caught the eye of young John and made mute pantomime. "Who is it of whom He speaks?" John, whose heart was so full of love that he had not learned to be fearful, looked up into the eyes of his Master and said bluntly: "Lord, who is it?"

Jesus lifted His head, the eyes still full of anguish, and He whispered: "It is he to whom I will give the morsel after dipping it into the bowl."

Judas had stopped eating and was obviously as shocked as any of the rest of the company. He, too, had asked, in pained surprise: "Is it I, Lord?" and, like the others, he received no answer. Inwardly he trembled, feeling sure that someone in the entourage of the high priest had discussed the plot in the streets, or perhaps told a follower of Jesus that one of the Apostles had promised to deliver Him to Caiaphas in the dead of night. But did Jesus know who? Judas doubted it.

Jesus took a morsel and dipped it into a bowl of charoseth. He shook the loose wine from it and held it to Judas. The moneykeeper, who had not heard John ask the question — nor the whispered reply — looked pleased and held his mouth toward the tidbit and ate it. Judas regarded this as a mark of favor.

Smug, and now certain that he was not under suspicion, Judas asked again — this time not in concert with the others — "Is it I, Master?" Softly, the Nazarene murmured: "Thou has said it," which was an Aramean colloquialism meaning "yes," but meaning more than yes. It also meant "You have said it, not I." He would use this expressioon once more before He died.

Jesus Stares at Judas

Jesus continued to stare at Judas steadily, no rancor in His eyes, and He said: "That which you must do, do quickly."

Judas understood. Some of the others heard it, and thought that the Master had ordered Judas Iscariot to go out into the night and buy things for the festival, which had a week more to go.

The Judean pushed himself back on the low couch and stood. For a moment he looked down on the reclining figures of his friends and then, without adieu, he walked around the table, the leather purse swinging from his hand, and down the stairway and out into the night. Only three persons in the room knew that he had betrayed the Prince of Love — John, Peter and Jesus.

30 Pieces of Silver

Judas hurried out into the streets and walked north a street ro two to the home of Caiaphas. The Apostles did not mention the fact when they wrote about this later, but Judas had to earn the thirty pieces of silver which Caiaphas had promised, for this was the price of a slave. (Actually, this was the "compensation price" for a slave killed by an ox. St. Matthew specifies "thirty pieces of silver," probably meaning thirty Hebrew shekels or the equivalent of 120 denarii. A denarius was the price of a day's labor for a common soldier or worker.) The high priest had accepted the offer only if Judas could effect the arrest of Jesus when the multitudes of His followers were not about.

This was the time, and what better time than when He was already inside the walls of the city? The courtyards of Caiaphas and his father-in-law, Annas, adjoined by a common gate, and a servant studied the glistening face of Judas under a flickering yard light and told him to wait.

Mean Judean Mercenary

It was near the third hour of the night watch when Caiaphas came out. The high priest was a dark, balding man who wore rich garments and affected a superior manner. Judas would have meant little to him on any occasion. Now he met him only on the chance that this mean little Judean mercenary might be ready to deliver up the Nazarene.

Caiaphas had small patience with his man. He asked by what right Judas expected an audience at this hour. The faithless one said that he bore good tidings, that Jesus and the Apostles were sitting at the Pasch this moment, only three throws of a stone away from where the high priest stood.

Now Caiaphas was both pleased and worried. He had not expected the opportunity to take this spurious Messiah so quickly. No arrangements had been made. The temple guards could be summoned in ten minutes, but, in a case of this kind, it would be wise to ensure the co-operation of the Romans.

Paces Courtyard

The high priest, finger to lips, paced the courtyard. He, too, had a problem. In all Palestine there was only one man greater than Caiaphas, and this was Annas. His father-in-law was a maker and breaker of men.

When Jesus was eleven years of age, Annas had been appointed high priest by Publius Sulpicius Quirinus, who was then beginning his second term as Roman legate of all Syria. He became rich, influential beyond the boundaries of his country. Then, in succession, five of his sons became high priest. Now his son-in-law Caiaphas was in office, but Annas controlled the high priesthood and the temple markets.

Caiaphas asked Judas where the criminal was, and the Judean told the high priest the house. The highh priest nodded with some surprise because he knew the father of Mark as a rich and substantial citizen of Jerusalem with considerable influence of the temple. One never knew where to look for Disciples of Jesus.

Tells Judas To Wait

Caiaphas told Judas to wait in the courtyard and, in a moment, he was alone. The high priest had lifted the hem of his costly garment and had hurried across the court to tell Annas the news and to get counsel.

In ten minutes, Caiaphas was back. He was curt now. The chief of the temple guards had been sent for and would arrive in a little while with a complement of men. They would wait with Judas for additional Roman legionaries. Caiaphas himself would be off in a moment to seek personal audience with the procurator, Pilate, and ask him to assign a centurion to the job of assisting in the raid on the upstairs room.

Judas was shocked. He had assumed that this was a small thing, a matter to be forgotten in the morning. Now this elegant personage had consulted the great Annas and had summoned, not one temple guard, but a group of them, and would now go, at this late hour, to consult with the representative of Caesar, who would assign a centurion, no less, and more soldiers.

"Love One Another"

The Pasch proceeded in the upper room. Eleven Apostles reclined with Jesus. They dipped and ate. They washed their hands. They drank wine. When Jesus was silent they conversed animatedly When He spoke they fell silent.

"Dear children," He said softly, "a new commandment I give you. Love one another; as I love you, so I want you, too, to love one another. By this token all the world must know that you are My Disciples — by cherishing love for one another. Only a little while longer am I with you. You will miss Me and, as I told the Jews, so I tell you at present: where I am going you cannot come."

The others looked to Simon Peter. He bent across the back of his Messiah and, trying to speak quietly, said: "Lord, where are

"Follow Me Later"

Jesus turned His head across His own right shoulder to glance briefly at the face of His chief Disciple. "Where I am going," He said slowly, but loudly enough for all to hear, "you cannot at present follow Me. But you will follow Me later."

For a moment, Simon Peter digested this reply. Not understanding that he could not go now, but would go later, he pressed one more question. "And why, Lord, cannot I follow You right now? I will lay down my life for You."

Jesus did not turn His head as He answered: "You will lay down your life for Me?" He shook His head from side to side. "Before cockcrow you will disown Me three times."

Caiaphas seeks an audience with Pontius Pilate, the procurator of Judea, in the towering stronghold of the Romans, Fortress Antonia, as the fateful hour of 9 p.m. arrives. Continue the account of the most dramatic day in history here Monday.

A Bit Of History About John Markley Murder

By B. F. M. MacPHERSON

The notes on the trial and execution of John Markley, the murder of John and Lydia Newey and their entire family, are continued at that time.

1. January 25, 1831 —

"Some of the clothes of Mr. Newey, lately murdered in Harbaugh's Valley, we learn, were found in the possession of John Markley, who was a few days since arrested in Baltimore, Maryland. The clothes were identified by a relative of Mr. Newey Markley has been committed for trial."

2. February 15, 1831 —

"Markley, the supposed murderer of the Newey family in Harbaugh's Valley, has been removed from Baltimore, Maryland, to Frederick, where he will receive his trial at the next term of the criminal Court, which commences in May. William Ross and Joseph Palmer, Esqrs., have been appointed counsel from the prisoner. James Dixon, Esq., will represent the State's interest, and prosecute the case."

3. April 19, 1831 —

Made No Confession

"As we expected, the reported confession of (John) Markley is without foundation. The 'Frederick Examiner' says '—it is vastly edifying and interesting, but, unfortunately, happens to be totally untrue. Markley has made no such confession.' "

John Markley, on more than one occasion, gave the authorities to understand that he was ready and willing to make a confession but always refused to follow through at the last minute. The same can be said regarding his accomplice in the crime — he never really acknowledged that others were involved but gave many hints as to the number and identity of his companions. It was generally thought that at least one other man took part in the murders for it would have been virtually impossible for Markley alone to have overcome an entire family that included two full grown men and a strong young boy. Also Mrs. George Flautt heard two men signaling on her way home the night the tragedy took place.

The first witness for the prosecution, when Markley went on trial for his life, was George Flautt, a neighbor of the murdered family. His testimony, in part, was as follows:— "I did not see the body of Mrs. Newey until after the neighbors came up and began throwing water on the fire. She lay on the bed downstairs — her head was burnt off — old Mr. Tressler (Mrs. Newey's father) was burnt up entirely — the infants were less burnt (the two little daughters of John and Lydia Newey) — the bound boy (John Coombes) was nearly consumed. I saw the linen of Mrs. Newey which had three holes in it — they looked as if they were made by a knife. The linen was bloody. I examined the stabs in the body of Mrs. Newey — particularly the ones in the abdomen — the cuts in the linen were crosswise. We applied the linen to the body and the holes in the linen corresponded to the wounds in the body.

Newey Is Warned

"There was a report in the neighborhood, before the Neweys were murdered, that Markley had been seen in the immediate vicinity, and Mr. Newey was warned to be on his guard, for his house was to be burnt down."

The second witness was John Flautt, who was, apparently a son or brother of George Flautt. The testimony of this man was rather brief for, in the main, he merely corroborated the statements of the first witness. Under questioning he (John Flautt) told the following story:— "I was at the fire and saw the wound in (John) Newey's head and thought the flesh was burnt off it — it was as light as it is now. I had a distinct view of the floor through the blaze of the fire; saw no blood. The floor was burnt away between me and where Newey lay, but none immediately about him (John Newey); the floor above was considerably burnt, and some small timbers had fallen to the lower floor where Newey lay — but none close to him. The house seemed to be set on fire at top and bottom at the same time, from the manner in which it was burning. There was no smoke in the room in which the bodies lay although the floor was burning. The floor lay very close to the ground (apparently there was no cellar under that part of the house), the bodies sank into the ground, and in different parts of the room. It was burnt into coal."

Three Stab Wounds

Jonas Manahan was the third person to give his testimony and what he had witnessed pertained to the cause of Mrs. Newey's death:— "I was present at the disinterment of Mrs. Newey's body, which took place the second day after burial (February 2, 1831). There were three stab wounds in her body; and the linen in which she was killed was put upon her and the cuts in it corresponded with the wounds in her body. Her body was still in a condition to show the nature of the wounds; one of them was a clear cut. I first saw Mrs. Newey's body in the house (Newey's); the linen was burnt off that part of the body exposed to the fire; the part cut was under and so protected from the fire. The wounds in Mrs. Newey's body were all very deep."

Daniel Bebehoof, the fourth witness, testified along the same lines, but also stated that he "was at the second inquest and was the person that compared the linen with the body, the cuts fitted exactly; they were clear cuts, across the threads. The linen was strong and could not have been torn in this manner but had to be cut."

"Corresponded Exactly"

James Manahan was also present when the linen of Mrs. Newey was compared with the body. He said ". . . they corresponded exactly, the three cuts with the three wounds; to be certain I put my finger into two of the wounds in Mrs. Newey's body and found them smooth clear cuts and very deep."

It will be remembered that John Markley, previous to the murder of the Newey family, was convicted in the court at Frederick, Maryland, on October 26, 1825, of burglary and theft on the testimony of John Newey, the deceased, and sentenced to the penitentiary for five years. At the conclusion of his trial on these charges, he made, while still in the court room, certain threats of vengeance against John Newey, his uncle. This was brought out during the murder trial by John King, the sixth witness for the prosecution, who testified:—

"At the time of John Markley's former conviction, he said here in the courthouse that he would have revenge. John Williams, at the Jail on the same day, said that Markley declared '—the State's Attorney and the Judges were no better than Newey (John) and the witnesses, or they would not have believed them, and if I (Markley) ever get out, I will have satisfaction if I have to kill and burn up the whole lot of them.' Witnesses said to him '—five years is a long time and you'll forget it.' He (Markley) swore he 'would never forget.' "

John Black Testifies

John Black, who lived four miles above Emmitsburg, Maryland "on the turnpike road leading towards Waynesburg, Pennsylvania." was called as a witness and testified that "Markley came to his (Black's) house December 21, 1830, and asked for supper and lodging. He stayed until after breakfast the next morning. He called himself John Markell and left without paying. He (Markley) had no bundle of any kind. Said that he lived in the Middletown Valley. It is only about seven and one-half miles from my house (Black's) to Newey's."

The state had established the been murdered. John Markley, the man on trial for the crime, had been shown to have a motive and to have made threats of vengeance. Now the prosecution was producing witnesses to prove that Markley was in the vicinity of the Newey home at the time the murders were committed and left the neighborhood immediately after the tragedy.

Barnard W. Wright was next called. He said he was a resident of Smith's Town in Washington, County, Maryland. His story, in part, was as follows:— "The first Friday after Newey's murder, about sunset, Markley came to my house, about seven miles from Newey's. Another man with him. Markley had a knapsack roughly made, filled with clothing. He gave it to me to keep. They took supper and told me they came down from Huntingdon County, Pennsylvania. They arose before day. Markley pulled out his purse and I noticed it particularly and through it was the very purse that I saw John Newey have at my house about two weeks before."

THE ABUNDANCE IN YOU

By James A. Terrell
Los Angeles, California

Seven years ago I was last in sales in my office. As a stock broker and investment counselor, I solicited business in the best accepted traditions of selling. I tried to pry open the minds of my customers with the tools of high pressure, firm persuasion, awesome facts. This was very worse yet, the hard work; results were poor.

James A. Terrell

Financially, I was unable to meet the taxes on our home. My wife, a marriage counselor and a lecturer on psychology in the Los Angeles public schools, was contributing more than her share to our upkeep, and despite her expert advice, my ego was suffering great strain.

It was then, when hurting all over, that I began an earnest search for spiritual answers to my problems. For 44 years I had been a church member, and I still am. But somehow God had remained a Sunday acquaintance, unreal, shrouded in formality and very far away. Spurred by my defeats, I discovered I needed Him close at hand.

A Simple Method

Could I get God into my daily affairs? If so, how? Through inspirational reading and metaphysical study, I arrived at that day six years ago when I decided I could, and that the method I would use was simple: it could be wrapped up in six words.

"Salute the Christ in every person!"

In other words, I affirmed to myself that everyone I met had with him the Christ spirit . . . the essence of good . . . a part of God . . . however you want to phrase it. My recognition of this quality — in others and in myself — immediately put our relationship on a higher level.

Before making a call, for example, I would eliminate from my mind all thoughts of resistance and conflict. I would sit a few moments in my car and "salute" my prospective client. "If my proposition is right for him, he will know it," I would say to myself; "if it isn't, I don't want the business."

Inner Guidance

This method not only made me a better salesman, but it also gave me inner guidance, assurance, and gave my clients an invisible service — protection. I remember once when a client recommended me to a gentle, elderly lady who called at the office.

"I've never made an investment in my life," she confessed. In earlier days my reaction would have been: "This is like taking candy from babies."

Instead, my new pledge to honor the Christ in every person took over within me. "Give me the perfect idea for her," I prayed. "She is not giving me money but putting it to work, and it will flow back to her as a good investment. If in any way it doesn't meet her need or is not a good idea, I release it now!"

Good Investments

As a result, the investments she made proved to be very good ones indeed.

Last year when I was made manager of the mutual fund department of my firm, I had the responsibility for training our young salesmen. When they approached a client I advised them to say to themselves in advance: "I am here to render this customer a service. I salute the Christ in him and he in me, and in this spirit we conduct our business."

There were no instructions on how to beat the competition. Quite the contrary. When one of my leading salesmen raised the problem by saying: "But so-and-so is in on this deal and I'm afraid I won't get a chance to be of service," I told him what I had come to believe:

Not Easy

"Whatever is best for both of you no other person or condition can take from you. In a Divine plan there is enough to go around."

Sometimes when tempted to tear my hair over such daily irritations as lack of time, traffic, and conflicting personalities, I've had to realize the presence of Christ in turmoil. That hasn't been easy.

First, I affirm the fact that there is a certain rhythm to life and when one is a part of this rhythm, the frustrations and pressures of every day life diminish. Second, I declare myself receptive to this rhythm. Third, I practice the presence of Christ in every situation — no matter how small it may seem.

In the beginning, my wife, J'Nevelyn, steeped in the intellectual theories of Freud, Adler, and Jung, tended to feel that my system was an over simplification. "You just can't solve all those problems with a six-word capsule," she said skeptically.

Deciding Factor

Then one morning she announced, "Well, I am going to try it, but only because I can see it works for you."

Although we had been happily married 17 years, some tensions and conflicts had built up in our home, and we had come to accept a kind of grayness as normal. Now, it was like stepping out into the sunshine.

"I think this business of seeing God in your partner is the deciding factor in a happy marriage," was the conclusion of my marriage counselor wife.

Economist Offers Tips On ApplianceBuying,Advises Plan Garden For Nutrition

By MRS. HELEN TUNISON
Associate Home Economist

Do the first signs of spring have you dreaming of your garden with its fresh, succulent vegetables? If so, put your dreams to work and plan what you will plant. Plan your garden so it will help you save money while you serve your family hearty, nutritious meals.

Mrs. Tunison

A good garden depends on good soil. When the soil provides needed nutrients, strong, healthy plants develop. People also need nutrients to help make them strong and healthy. Vegetables help provide these nutrients.

Dark green and deep yellow vegetables as broccoli, swiss chard, carrots and squash are especially good sources of vitamin A needed for healthy eyes and skin and shiny hair. Some vegetables as pepper and raw cabbage are good sources of vitamin C. This the vitamin that helps present bleeding gums, aching joints, and easy bruising. Other vegetables give added variety, interest and nutrients to meals.

Consider Needs

Planning your garden now can help you plant the right amounts of the vegetables your family needs. Estimate the amount of each vegetable your family will eat fresh and the amount you might plan to can or freeze. Try to introduce a new vegetable to your family this year. Make it one that will contribute vitamin A to their diet.

Further information on planting and good eating is found in the mimeograph, "Fruits and Vegetables for Your Family, Suggested Yearly Plan." For a free copy of this mimeograph call the Agriculture Extension Office, Courthouse, Gettysburg.

Learning Through Play

Play is a child's most fascinating activity. Through play, he experiences not only joy and pleasure, but also deep satisfaction.

A child explores, experiments, and interprets the world around him as he plays. His playroom is his laboratory, and in it he comes to many useful conclusions.

To encourage your child to explore and experiment as he plays, choose his toys carefully. Select playthings that stimulate creative activity in him. Good toys help develop skills, initiative, self-reliance and imagination.

The finest toys don't always come from the toy counter. A child often finds objects you normally discard attractive and useful. These include cardboard boxes, cartons, bottle caps, salt boxes with a pour spout, spools, string, scraps of fabric, wrapping paper, paper bags, tin cans with smooth edges and many other articles. An oatmeal box can make a fine silo, a shoe box a chicken house.

Some children play for hours with durable kitchen equipment and utensils. Items such as funnels, wooden spoons, scoops, sieves, pans, colanders, sprinklers, cups and butter molds add enjoyment to indoor play.

Service Important

Servicing of appliances is more important today than ever before. As appliances have become more automatic, they've become more complex. They are more easily thrown out of adjustment and repairs are more complicated.

Compare the wringer washer with the automatic washer. The wringer washer has few working parts. Its adjustment is simple. The homemaker controls the amount and temperature of water and length of wash and rinse cycles. With an automatic washer, sensitive controls take the place

Noting a marked increase in questions about "bingo" as a lottery, Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield today released some questions and answers on this subject:

Q. Does state law making bingo legal within individual states make it possible to use the mails to advertise bingo so long as such advertisments go only within state borders?

A. No. Changes in state laws do not affect the federal statues restricting bingo. The Postal Lottery Law, Title 18, Section 1302, U. S. Code, prohibits any mailing of lottery matter—and bingo is considered a lottery—whether such mailing is a ticket, payment or advertisement. It makes no difference that such mailing is confined within the borders of the state where such lottery may be legalized.

Affects All Mail

Q. Does the restriction against lottery "advertisements" apply only to newspaper advertisements?

A. No. The restriction applies equally to magazines and periodicals which go through the United States mails, as well as to any form of notice advertising a lottery sent through the mails by individuals or organizations.

Q. One does not think of bingo as being in the same category as the big lotteries such as the Irish Sweepstakes. Why is bingo considered a "lottery?"

A. The law says it is a lottery. Under federal court decisions, the classic identifications of a lottery are "consideration, chance and prize." There is consideration in the form of the fee paid to play; there is no doubt that there is chance in bingo; and prizes of cash or merchandise are offered.

Circumvention Taboo

Q. Suppose the advertisement of a bingo game does not mention "bingo" at all? It is still prohibited in the mails?

A. Yes. Bingo, or similar games using different names, cannot be advertised in any matter carried through the mails. The law cannot be evaded by such words as "party" or "games" or "big game Wednesday night" or by merely printing "$." If the advertisement in fact relates to a lottery, it is a violation of the federal law.

Q. Are lotteries conducted for charity exempted in any way from the federal prohibitions?

A. None whatever. The Postal Lottery Law makes no exceptions in favor of lotteries conducted for worthy causes, or which might be regarded as a "little raffle."

"I hope," Mr. Summerfield commented, "that these answers will aid in public understanding of these laws, which the Post Office Department is duty bound to enforce."

LOS ANGELES (AP)—He was walking in his sleep, Clyde said. And he was dreaming. Dreaming that the house he was entering was his grandma's, and a meal of fried chicken and cookies awaited him.

It naturally came as a great surprise, Clyde said, when a woman's scream awakened him and a policeman arrested him on suspicion of burglary.

A judge listened kindly Friday and then sentenced Clyde McCall, 21, to 100 days in jail on a charge of trespassing.

MOVEMENT TO CHURCH UNITY 20 YEARS OLD

By TOM HENSHAW
AP Religion Writer

A Protestant-Catholic togetherness movement, long antedating Pope John XXIII's call for an ecumenical council, observes its 20th birthday this year.

The movement, called Una Sancta, has been goinng on so quietly and informally that its participants probably are surprised to find that they have been getting together for two decades.

Una Sancta, meaning "One Holy," is confined almost exclusively to the German-speaking countries of Europe. Its participants are chiefly Roman Catholic and Lutheran clergymen and lay theologians.

"Genuine Meeting"

Informal headquarters is the Benedictine Abbey in Niederaltaich, Germany. Its abbot, the Rt Rev. Emmanuel Heufelder, says Una Sancta's goal "is not the conversion of the Protestant churches but a genuine meeting of Christians in order to find the will of God together in a new understanding."

"Both sides are learning to see the good in each other and to be neither anti-Catholic nor anti-Protestant. Differences will remain—not in a hostile manner—but as brothers looking to the same Christ."

Foundned in 1939

Una Sancta was founded in 1939 by a Roman Catholic priest, the Rev. Max Metzger, who was martyred by the German Nazis a few years later for his cooperation with Protestants in opposing Hitler.

The movement received added impetus in World War II when Catholic and Protestant clergy and lay leaders were forced to cooperate—and learn to respect each other—in exile and in concentration camps.

ST. LOUISANS TOP BOWLERS

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Two members of the famed St. Louis Falstaffs have established themselves as the top American Bowling Congress tournament performers over the long haul.

Steve Nagy was proclaimed the ABC 10-year average leader Friday and teammate Bill Welu was named the top averager over the last 5 years.

Nagy mustered an 1804 all-events skein as his team competed Friday in the minor events of the tournamept. This gave Nagy a mean of 207-8 for the past decade, an all-time record for 10 years of ABC competition.

Welu went to the head of the 5-year category with a 212-41 average — another record. Al Faragalli of Patterson, N. J., had 209-16 last year for the previous high mark.

Welu's 1878 nine-game total did not figure in the top ten standings of the all-events, but his final block of 606 earned him fourth place in the singles.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A temperamental actress walked out on play rehearsals here. But the director says they'll just go on without her if she doesn't come back by Wednesday's opening.

The actress is Flip, a fluffy gray cat with topaz eyes.

"She's in two vital scenes with the leading actor and we can't cut them out," Director Norman Morton said.

"She just holds still and listens but there aren't many cats that will do that."

What if Flip doesn't show up? The show — "Visitor to a Small Planet" — will go on, "even if we have to use a teddy bear in the part," Morton said.

7 Directors For Community Chest Named: In a brisk 25-minute session, the Gettysburg Community Chest members conducted their annual meeting Monday evening at the engine house with the election of seven directors as the chief item of business. Judge W. C. Sheely presided.

With all member organizations represented, the Chest re-elected these directors for three - year terms: Attorney Donald M. Swope, Mrs. Henrietta Blocher, Mrs. Walter H. Danforth, Dean W. E. Tilberg, Richard S. Codori and Robert E. Berkheimer. Ralph E. Barley was elected as a new member of the board.

Unemployment Reflected On Public Rolls: The rise in unemployment is being reflected on the rolls of public assistance in Adams county, the assistance board learned Monday evening at its regular meeting in its offices on North Washington street.

An increase in the case load of 26 over the previous month and an increase of 53 cases over February 1948 was noted in the report presented by Mrs. Verna Myers, executive director of the assistance office here.

Boost Budget To Pay Share Of New Street: The Biglerville borough council has adopted what is probably its largest budget in some time, but most of the money will go to pay off last year's street building program, Earl E. Ecker, secretary of the council, revealed today.

The budget lists expenditures of $17,765.51. Of that amount approximately $12,800 will go to the state as the town's part of payment for the new main street constructed last summer, Mr. Ecker pointed out.

Firemen Asking Early Start On Parade Floats: The committee of the Gettysburg Fire company in charge of festivities here July 1, 2, 3 and 4 celebrating the 86th anniversary of the Battle of Gettysburg today urged countians and others to begin consideration of ideas for floats to appear in a parade during the period.

James Shenk, chairman of the committee said "other communities have distinguished themselves by the type and quality of floats that appear in parades on dates sacred to those communities. We can do the same here. The battle, the battlefield, the National Cemetery, Lincoln, the fruit belt, the county's history, all can be used as basic themes for floats. With the cooperation of the community, the finest parade in history could be put on here as part of the celebration of the 86th anniversary of the battle."

County Women Divided On Whether Houses Should Be Cleaned Twice A Year: Adams county rural residents have not as yet made up their minds whether the old-fashioned twice a year general housecleaning should be abolished.

That is the finding reported in the annual report of Miss Mary Jane Mickey, county home economics extension representative.

At nine different meetings, at which 95 women took part, the question: "Is It Necessary to Houseclean Twice A Year?" was debated, the report shows. The sessions ended with those arguing in the affirmative still more than ever convinced that the entire house should be "torn apart" spring and fall in a general housecleaning. Those who opposed maintained that housecleaning throughout the year is sufficient and that the days of turmoil and upheaval surrounding the traditional "housecleaning" should be relegated to the limbo of the past.

HOW I READ A BOOK

Reading a book is an experience that wraps itself all about me. I travel about the world, visit habits and forms of life that have gone through the changes of centuries. The large majority of books are about people, for they make up a book's scenery.

Books fascinate me. I like new books that I have never read. There is a certain glory in their bright jackets and there often is a warmth to a good book that is evident the moment you open its first pages. Some day I am going to write some Talks and comment on the unique dedications of different books. I have bought many a book just because I liked the dedication.

I never skip pages in a book that I am reading. Not even one to learn what will happen later. When I come across unusual expressions I mark them with a pencil for later review. I get my group of characters in my mind as soon as they appear. Then I talk with them and take the introduction of the author as he acquaints me with each one. Many I learn to love — and some I could never like. Some authors take their pet characters around with them, and some are put into a later novel. I don't object. I learn more about each author.

I don't read in bed. I go to bed to sleep, but I often like to have a beloved book near me on a stand or close to where I write. I always feel happy knowing such a fine book is in the world, and near me. I feel sad when I run into a book that has been abused — pages torn out, and otherwise damaged. A book is a person to me. I like to get the thought of an author, and I like fine writing, like the prose of Lafcadio Hearn and the poetry of Robert Frost. I like to read books that I easily remember.

Just Folks

HELPFULNESS

If you have made another smile
Upon his weary way today,
If only for a little while
You've chased another's gloom away,
If you have met upon the road
A brother, limping and distressed,
And helped him with his heavy load,
Then you have earned your night of rest.

If you have smoothed another's brow
And by your labors made him glad,
If only words of yours, somehow,
Have cheered a toiler who was sad,
Tonight, if just because of you
Hope lives within a brother's breast,
Think not of what you failed to do;
You still have earned your time of rest.

PRR Awaits PUC Rule On 4 Trains

HARRISBURG (AP) — The Pennsylvania Railroad today awaited a Public Utility Commission ruling on its plans for eliminating four passenger trains between Philadelphia and Pittsburgh for economy reasons.

Allen J. Greenough, vice president, cited declining patronage in pleading the railroad's case at a commission hearing Friday.

"In view of this and our very substantial passenger deficit which was 44 million dollars last year it seems obvious that the service must be tailored to meet public demand and our costs," Greenough said.

He told the commission that the carrier had complied "completely and fully" with a State Supreme Court order regarding passenger service in the state.

62 PASSENGERS ON BUS ROBBED

RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — Two bandits pulled an Eastern version of the old Wild West stagecoach holdup Friday. They collected $655 at gunpoint from 62 people on a commuter bus from New York.

The pair posed as passengers. When the bus emerged from the Lincoln Tunnel under the Hudson River, one of them sitting at the front told bus driver Julius Nagy: "There's going to be a holdup."

As the bus rolled along on Rt. 3, the other bandit moved from the rear with a brown duffle bag, taking up the collection among the passengers, some of them standing in the aisle.

"He skipped some of the people in the excitement. I guess because of the standees," Nagy said.

None of the riders spoke. None moved, except to reach for wallet or purse. It was over in 10 minutes.

The men alighted at Wheaton Ave. here and strolled leisurely away as the bus disappeared.

There were no service stations handy where Nagy could phone police, so he drove the bus to the De Camp Bus Co. garage in Clifton, two miles away.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga) said Friday the Senate has little choice about extending the peacetime draft law for another four years.

As chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, Russell ordered three days of public hearings, starting Tuesday. The extension bill was passed 381-20 by the House on Feb. 5. The present law expires July 1.

"There is a stark necessity for continuing the law if we are to stay in the game of power politics with Soviet Russia," Russell said in an interview.

Scoleri's brother, Anthony, 29, was convicted by a jury last Nov. 26 and sentenced to death in the electric chair. He is appealing the conviction.

SAYS BRITON PUT CHILL ON SOVIET TALKS

By RONALD THOMSON

MOSCOW (AP) — First Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan has implied Prime Minister Macmillan is to blame for putting the chill on British-Soviet talks by taking a "tough line" on Germany.

Mikoyan said Friday night that if the West does not arrange a peace treaty with Germany and settle the Berlin issue the Soviets will sign a separate pact with East Germany. The Western powers do not recognize the Communist East German state.

Give Up Hope

Macmillan told his Soviet hosts at a dinner in Kiev Friday night that the Soviet Union must negotiate with an honest desire for fair agreement if it really wants peace.

But sources close to the British delegation said Macmillan has just about given up hope of bringing East and West closer together on the Berlin crisis in view of Khrushchev's uncompromising stand.

The Soviet Premier attacked the West Tuesday and turned down a Western call for a foreign ministers' conference on Germany.

17-STORY FALL MINOR WORRY

NEW YORK (AP)—James Bell, 11, is recovering rapidly from a 17-story drop from an apartment window, but his troubles aren't over yet.

He is emotionally disturbed, doctors say. They believe the condition existed before the plunge, but say the fall might have made it worse.

The youngster will be given mental tests. He has been in a hospital, recovering from broken bones and internal injuries suffered in the 139-foot fall on Feb. 17.

The boy, one of eight children in the family of Baker Luther Bell, either jumped or fell from a bedroom window of the family's apartment in a housing project in Manhattan.

He had been sent to the bedroom as punishment for having taken 25 cents, without permission, to buy potato chips. A few moments later his 12-year-old sister Edith scream: "Jimmy went out the window."

Police, noting that the boy has poor eyesight, listed the plunge as an accident.

Wants Less Talk On Berlin Crisis

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Everett M. Dirksen (R-Ill) underlined the potential gravity of the Berlin crisis Friday by pleading for less talk on Capitol Hill while President Eisenhower weighs "the hour-to-hour developments."

Dirksen, the Senate's Republican leader and chief administration spokesman, cautioned in an interview against headline-making speeches or any hasty action that might affect critical negotiations.

Renewed tension over the Berlin situation exploded in the Senate Thursday with Democratic demands for a stepped-up defense program and for alerting the people to any eventuality — including the possibility of a shooting war.

Adding to the apprehension were the uncompromising tone of recent speeches by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and the apparent lack of any favorable results in Khrushchev's Moscow talks this week with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan. The talks ended Thursday with British reports that neither side was giving an inch.

3rd Youth Found Guilty In Slaying

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—"They were all yelling 'hit him, hit him,' so I did. I hit him with a blackjack and he fell down."

This was the testimony of 16-year-old Leonard Johnson Thursday shortly before a panel of three judges found him guilty of first degree murder and sentenced him to life imprisonment for the slaying of In-Ho Oh, a Korean graduate student at the University of Pennsylvania.

The judges were Charles L. Guerin, Francis Brown Jr. and Peter F. Hagan.

Johnson was the third of nine boys to be tried and convicted for the fatal beating of Oh last April 25 on a West Philadelphia street.

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Police ringed the funeral parlor Thursday night to hold back the curious as family and friends paid last respects to Abner (Longie) Zwillman, 54, the man called king of the New Jersey underworld.

Zwillman's years of crime, violence and a belated quest for respectability came to an end Thursday. He hanged himself in his mansion in suburban West Orange.

Highlights In

The Life Of Christ

He Drives The Money-Changers From The Temple

Jesus went up on the side of the mountain, and with Him trudged the Twelve. There He gave them the power to heal the sick, the lame, the crippled, the blind and He gave them power to cast out devils. He charged the Twelve with their responsibility in having this power, and there on the mountain He gave them their first and most important lesson as men who would carry His word to the ends of the earth.

"Blessed are the poor in spirit," Jesus said, "for theirs is the kingdom of heaven. Blessed are the meek and gentle, for they will inherit the land. Blessed are the sorrowing, for they will be consoled. Blessed are those who hunger and thirst after holiness, for they will be fully satisfied. Blessed are the merciful, for they will have mercy shown to them. Blessed are the singlehearted, for they will see God.

"Blessed are the promoters of peace, for they will rank as children of God. Blessed are the victims of persecution for conscience sake, for theirs is the kingdom of heaven. Blessed are you when you are reviled, or persecuted, or made a target for nothing but malicious lies — for My sake. Rejoice; yes, leap for joy; a rich reward awaits you in heaven.

"Do not think it My mission to annul the Law of the Prophets," Jesus said, looking intently at the Apostles. "It is not My mission to annul but to fulfill. I assure you emphatically: before heaven and earth pass away, not a single letter or one small detail will be expunged from the Law — no, not until all is accomplished. Whoever, therefore, breaks one of these least commandments and instructs his fellow men to do likewise, will be of lowest rank in the kingdom of heaven. He, on the contrary, who both observes and inculcates them will win high distinction in the kingdom of heaven. Yes, let Me tell you: if your religion is not very much bettter than that of the scribes and Pharisees, you will not enter the kingdom of heaven."

RAIL WORKERS ENDING STRIKE

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Railway workers trickled back to their jobs Friday, ending a strike that paralyzed more than two - thirds of Mexico's rail transportation.

The first of the 60,000 striking workers began showing up at station and yards at 9:30 a.m. That was the hour set Thursday night when union leaders and officials of the government-owned railroads reached agreement giving the workers an average 4 per cent raise and medical and housing benefits.

Service was not immediately resumed. Trains were expected to get rolling later in the day.

There were no signs of jubilation among the workers, who settled for much less than they demanded. Newspapers generally hailed the settlement as a victory for the government.

Union head Demetrio Vallejo had predicted all men would be back on the job by 9:30 a.m. Some returned Thursday night to put the yards in order.

NEW YORK (AP) — Negotiations for a Hollywood cosmetics firm to take over the Mutual Broadcasting System have broken off.

A joint announcement by the firm, Max Factor & Co., and the radio network said today the talks have been called off, the parties being unable to arrive at an agreement.

Bullets Drop 67-53 Game At Wagner; Face Upsala At East Orange Tonight

Weak rebounding, particularly in the first half, proved fatal to the Gettysburg College basketball team Friday evening when the Bullets dropped a 67-53 decision to Wagner at Staten Island, N. Y.

During the first half the Bullets captured but 10 rebounds and only one off the offensive board as the Seahawks led the entire way.

Wagner got off to a 6-0 lead in the opening minutes and from then on maintained a lead of between eight and 11 points, holding a 38-27 halftime margin.

The Hawks tallied the first five points of the second half and the closest Gettysburg could come was nine points with about five minutes of play remaining.

The winners out-rebounded Gettysburg 41-34.

Warfel Gets 18

Del Warfel led the scoring for the Hulton-men with 18 points. Walt McGowan and Frank Grzelecki added 12 and 11, respectively.

Harold Junta, 6-6 junior, spearheaded Wagner's offense with 22 and 6-4 Fred Blackwell tabbed 12.

Tonight the Bullets, now 13-11, tangle with Upsala at East Orange, N. Y.

Wagner finished its season with an 11-13 record.

JENKINS NEARS THIRD WORLD SKATE TITLE

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—Wiry Dave Jenkins of the United States is over the big hurdle and breezing downhill today on the trip to his third straight men's world figure skating championship.

MANTLE SIGNS FOR $80,000

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) Carrying a fat $80,000 contract in his wallet and wearing a wide, toothy grin Mickey Mantle today predicted he will have a big year.

"I know I have matured a great deal," said the slugger as he prepared to start his ninth spring training season with the New York Yankees. "I used to worry each spring whether I'd have a good year or not. I don't worry any more. I feel much more sure of myself. I'm confident I'm going to have a big year...if I'm not hurt.

"There's nothing wrong with me physically. I feel very good."

Mantle said he weighed 195 pounds, the same weight with which he finished the 1958 season when he batted .304, drove in 97 runs and led the American League with 42 home runs.

Mickey said he was setting his 1959 sights on a .330 batting average, 100 runs batted in and 50 homers.

FIERCE PRIDE OF CHAMPION SHINES FRIDAY

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The fierce pride of a champion was never better demonstrated than by shotput champion Parry O'Brien at the University of Southern California Friday.

The world record holder was one of hundreds watching when the sensational Trojan freshman, Dallas Long, got off a heave of 63 feet 4 inches in a dual meet against a junior college.

That's two inches better than O'Brien's official record, and although there was no chance of Long's mark being accepted because of the inadequacies of the Trojan practice field on which the meet was held, O'Brien accepted it—as a challenge.

While others surged around the 18-year-old giant from Phoenix, Ariz., O'Brien slipped unnoticed into the dressing room When he returned, he was wearing his track suit.

The shot put event was over—Long having bested the second-place man by 23 feet—and O'Brien took a few warm-up tosses.

Then the 27-year-old former Trojan put his heart, his powerful muscles and his pride into one tremendous effort The shot sailed 63 feet 6 inches. The king was still king.

"I Had To Do It"

O'Brien, now a bank employe, viewed the dramatic duel calmly. "Well," he said, "I had to do it. What would people think?"

Quite understandably. O'Brien was impressed by the youth who threatens to take over the field he has dominated so long.

"He looked very good," said Parry. "And he's got too much strength to go anywhere but up. I just hope I can fight him off for another year or two, but it's going to take some doing."

O'Brien and Long may clash officially for the first time next Saturday in an AAU meet. Long is entered, but O'Brien hasn't decided whether he will compete.

Cleveland Blanks Providence 5-0

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A 31-year-old veteran and a 20-year rookie grabbed off the headlines in the American Hockey League last night.

Fred Glover, in his 11th AHL season, scored two goals as Cleveland shutout Providence 5-0 to become the second man in the league history to score 300 goals. The two gave him an even 300. 19 short of the record established by Fred Thurier, one of the officials in the Cleveland-Providence game.

Bill Hicke ran his consecutive-game scoring streak to nine, two shy of the record, when he sent Rochester off in front against the pace setting Buffalo Bisons. The Bisons, however, struck back for two goals in the third period and the game ended in a 3-3 deadlock when neither team could tally in the overtime.

Hicke's goal was his 37th of the season and the 83rd point for the league's leading scorer.

There were only two games Friday night.

Mount Laces Baltimore; Meets American Tonight For M-D Championship

Mt. St. Mary's and American University advanced to the championship game of the Mason-Dixon Conference basketball tournament by taking victories in the semi-finals Friday evening at Catholic University, Washington, D. C.

The Mountaineers crushed top-seeded Baltimore University 106-83 while American turned back Loyola 84-72.

Jim Phelan's fast stepping Mount aggregation has now won eight of its last nine games. In American they will be opposing a team who defeated them twice during regular season play. Last year American won the tourney by defeating the Mount who had won four straight championships.

Savage, Sheing Star

Jerry Savage and Bert Sheing were again the big guns for Mt. St. Mary's with 34 and 27 points, respectively.

Early in the first half the score was deadlocked at 8-8 but from then on the Mount was on top, most of the time by a comfortable margin. Savage connected for 23 points in the first half as the Blue and White led 49-40 at halftime.

The Mount lead rocketed in the second half and late in the game Baltimore fought desperately to secure possession of the ball with the inevitable fouling which enabled the Phelman-men to utilize the foul line to great advantage. It was a season high scoring mark for the Mountaineers.

Tonight's title game will be at 8:30 o'clock.

SCORTICHINI SEEKS BIG BOUT

NEW YORK (AP)—"He's ready to fight the best and we're going to try and match him with either Gene Fullmer or Spider Webb."

So said Harry Markson, general manager of boxing at Madison Square Garden, after undefeated Gene (Ace) Armstrong scored a near-shutout over Italian middleweight champion Italo Scortichini in the big arena Friday night. It made Armstrong's record 17-0.

The rangy, 27-year-old middleweight contender from Elizabeth, N.J., was judged a 9-1 winner in rounds by all three of the officials.

Markson said that Webb, the No. 3 contender from Chicago, was a more likely opponent for a May fight in the Garden since Fullmer, the No. 2 challenger, injured his right hand a week ago. The NBA rates Armstrong fourth while Ring has him 10th.

"Either one is OK with me," said Armstrong. "My job is fighting. And if I can fight the top-ranking guys, all the better. It will mean more money. The main thing is that I want to keep busy."

Armstrong was the 4-1 favorite at ring time. He weighed 161, Scortichini 157⅞.

RON DELANY SEEKS RECORD THIS EVENING

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Ron Delany goes after his 30th straight indoor mile victory tonight and it could be the one in which the fabled 4-minute board dream becomes a reality.

Delay will toe the mark in a special during the ICAA Track and Field Chamionships in Madison Square Garden.

The past two years, Delany, Ireland's Olympic 1,500-meter champion, has helped Villanova to the team championship. But Ron and most of the other Wildcats of '57 and '58 have been graduated.

Scramble For Title

Jumbo Jim Elliott's outfit isn't conceded much of a chance of making it three in a row. Instead, most coaches think the scramble for the team title will be the most wide open in many a year.

Delany has a made-to-order field for record-breaking purposes. Only last week he lowered the world indoor mark to 4:02.5 in a bulky field. This time, there are just four others trying to beat him.

The two opponents he must watch the closest are Hungary's Istvan Roszavolgyi, a member of the 4-minute club outdoors, and Lt. Bill Dillinger of the U.S. Air Force, who lowered the world indoor 2-mile and 3-mile records in three weeks.

Runs Against Clock

It was Rozy who pushed Delany to the new standard last week. The skinny Hungarian runs strictly against the clock and by his own admission likes to break the record for any race he's in.

Dellinger is more of a distance man, but he is no slouch at the mile as evidenced by his 3:41.5 in the 1,500 meters—the fastest at the distance ever recorded by an American.

The other two entries in the special are Phil Coleman, Delany's personal pacemaker the past two years, and Paul Schmidt of Germany.

LEADS VETS AT BATON ROUGE

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — John McMullin, a crew-cut kid of 23, matched his two-stroke lead against a tough, veteran field today in the second round of the $15,000 Baton Rouge Open Golf Tournament.

This was two strokes better than Arnold Palmer, Ligonir, Pa., and Billy Maxwell, Odessa, Tex.

Bunched at 68 were Bob Goalby, Belleville, Ill.; Paul Harney, Worcester, Mass., and Mike Souchak, Grossingers, N.Y., while Dave Thomas, London, England, and Bert Weaver, Beaumont, Tex., each had 69.

Although 23 players registered better than par 72 over the rain-soaked 6,450-yard Baton Rouge Country Club course, it was McMullin who really took it apart.

The youngster stroked a nifty 33, three-under-par on the front nine, then stepped up the pace for a 32 coming home.

Defending champion Ken Venturi of Palo Alto, Calif., was four strokes over par after the first six holes, but snapped out of it for two birdies and a 74, two strokes above par but nine behind McMullin.

START DRILLS IN AMERICAN LEAGUE TODAY

By JIM KENSIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

This is the day the big bats come into play at American League training camps in Florida and Arizona.

Mickey Mantle starts working out with the New York Yankees at St. Petersburg, Fla. Jackie Jensen begins training with the Boston Red Sox at Scottsdale, Ariz. And Ted Williams, who winters in Florida, is expected at Scottsdale for his first workout.

This powerful trio shared the league's three major hitting titles last season. Williams had a batting average of .328, Mantle hit 42 home runs and Jensen batted in 122 runs. And Jackie, who belted 35 homers and had a .286 average, picked up the Most Valuable Player award in the process.

Mantle Gets $40,000

Mantle, the MVP in 1956 and 1957, signed with the Yankees Friday for $80,000, ending a two-day holdout.

Jensen, a teammate of Mantle on the 1951 Yankees, also agreed to terms Friday, but for only half as much, $40,000.

It has been a decade since Williams carried off the MVP award but he signed recently for more than Mantle and Jensen combined. His salary is a reported $125,000.

Other new signees included Preston Ward, Kansas City and Gus Zernial, Detroit.

SPARTANS MAY WIN FIRST BIG TEN CAGE TITLE

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Michigan State, still toddling around in knee pants by conference standards, can win its first undisputed Big Ten basketball championship tonight along with the coveted spot in the NCAA tournament that goes to the victor.

The Spartans are only in their eighth season of play in the conference. Two seasons ago they finished in a tie for first with Indiana.

It's the same Indiana team that is standing in the way of Michigan State this time. But the Spartans are favored.

If the Spartans had to wait 9 years for their first championship, they need not be concerned.

Started In 1906

The conference started a yearly race in 1906. It was 1925 before Ohio State won the crown for the first time outright. It was 1927 for Michigan, 1931 for Northwestern and Indiana didn't come out on top all by itself until 1953.

And just in case Michigan State (9-2) stumbles against Indiana (6-6), the Spartans will be a virtual certainty to win the title Monday when they engage Wisconsin (1-10).

The Southern, Pacific Coast and Yankee conference titles also can be determined tonight. The favorite in the Southern, as usual, is West Virginia, which has won the crown for the past four years.

Post-season Tourney

The Southern Conference winner is decided in a post-season tournament and the Mountaineers go against The Citadel in the final in Richmond. But West Virginia had a tough time turning back William and Mary, 85-82, in the semifinals Friday night. The Citadel edged George Washington, 53-52.

California can wrap it all up in the PCC by downing Washington State in its third game of the week. The Bears licked Southern California Friday night 70-64 to move within a whisper of their coal. Washington kept its slim hopes alive by beating Idaho 74-51.

Clinch Tie

As for the Yankee Conference, Connecticut will sit back and watch the progress of the Rhode Island-Massachusetts game. The Uconns already have clinched a tie and if Massachusetts wins this one, they are in. Otherwise, the Uconns and Rhode Island settle matters next Wednesday.

Dartmouth had a golden opportunity to win the Ivy League championship Friday night. But Princeton had other ideas and crushed the Hanover Indians 84-67. It was the first league defeat dealt to Dartmouth, the defending champions, and ended Dartmouth's 15-game winning streak.

Capacity Crowd Watches Delone Spank Gettysburg In Cage Season's Finale

The Gettysburg High Warriors and Delone Squires dropped the curtain on their 1958-59 basketball season with the Squires' taking the final contest, 56-38, Friday evening on the McSherrystown court before a capacity crowd.

The Warriors under head coach George Forney dropped their eighth game in a row to register a 5-15 record for the season. On the other hand the win broke a three-game losing streak for Coach John Flaherty's Squires' to give them a 10-14 slate for the year.

The Squires' were out to avenge a 41-36 setback handed them earlier in the season by Gettysburg. Tommy Crist opened the game with a set shot, but Mike Staub followed with a jump from the right side. John Gastley then put the Squires' ahead for the remainder of the game with a jump shot from the foul circle. Gettysburg stayed close behind on the foul shots of Mike Small and Bob Furney while Gastley was landing a trio of charity tosses for the home team. Paul Gebhart matched Crist on two-pointers and with two minutes in the initial frame, Dan Miller and Gastley tallied lay-ups. Bob Furney dunked a corner jump shot on the buzzer and Delone led 13-8 after a slow start on the part of both teams.

The Warriors came flying back in the second frame on a corner jump by Sid Weikert and a push shot by Hardy Nichols, but then things came to a stand-still for the visitors. Delone went on to tally 17 points while the only other Warrior goal came on Small's push from the right side. At intermission the Squires were out in front 30-15.

Both teams netted a low nine points each in the third quarter. In the final period Gettysburg began to hit their mark and match the opponents shot for shot, but by this time Delone had built up a strong lead.

Bob Furney and Mike Small each accounted for 10 of the Warriors' points. John Gastley played one of his top games as he led the Delone scoring with six goals and six for six fouls for 18 points. Paul Gebhart and Jim Keffer tallied 11 and 10. Gettysburg was top team from the foul line with 10 out of 12 shots.

Coach Bob Nicholson's Gettysburg reserves had little trouble in disposing of the Delone JV's as they crushed the home team 50-32 in the preliminary contest. After a close first period in which the little Warriors took a 10-8 lead, Gettysburg began to built a substantial lead under the defensive work of Roger Ecker and Greg Maitland and the scoring of Don Waddel, Howie Miller and Terry Hise. Waddel, Hise and Miller turned out to be the game's top scorers with 13, 11, and 10 points respectively. Don Hartlaub landed nine for the Squires'.

Biglerville Advances 5 In Section Mat Tourney; Mechanicsburg In Lead

Mechanicsburg's undefeated wrestlers, champions of Section 2 in District 3, advanced nine boys in the first round matches held at West York High School Friday night in the sectional tournament.

The Wildcats, unbeaten in 43 meets over a three-year span, led the team scoring with 6 points. Other team scores entering the semifinals this afternoon are: Shippensburg 4; Central York and York 3; Dover and Hanover 2; Biglerville 1, West York 0.

Semifinals will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock and the finals tonight at 8 o'clock.

Biglerville advanced five grapplers to the semifinals, two moving up via byes. Those drawing byes were Walt Showers, 103, and Rodney Palmer, 112.

Miller decisioned Danny Knott, Hanover, 7-2. During the regular season Knott defeated Miller. Harmon pinned Barry Zeigler, Dover, in 3:54, and Yasovsky decisioned George Fisher, Central York, 5-4.

Bowing out in the quarter finals were the following Biglerville entries: Bill Stoner, 95, who lost to Bill Favinger, Mechanicsburg, 4-0; Dick Roth, 127, who bowed to Floyd Albin, Hanover, 9-7; Carl Hess, 133, pinned by Steve Helm, Shippensburg, in 1:12; Harold Slusser, 154, who was tossed by Barre Shepp, Central York, in 3:07; Gary Wagner, 165, tossed by Lee Wise, Hanover, in 3:10, and Jim Showers, 185, who was pinned by Ross Gardner, Mechanicsburg, in 5:53.

The biggest upset of the evening was the fall gained by Carl Seifert, 133, Dover, over Jerry Poe, who had won 14 straight for Mechanicsburg.

Boston Tops Minneapolis 173-139; Maze Of Records

BOSTON (AP)—Boston 173, Minneapolis 139 and records galore.

In the most prolific scoring exhibition in the 13-year history of the NBA, Boston's Eastern division champions rewrote the record book Friday at Boston Garden. Even the losers got their share of marks.

Boston bettered the record for most points in a game, in one half (90) and in one quarter (52) without the services of its great center, Bill Russell.

St. Louis, holder of the previous single game point mark of 146, whipped Syracuse in the only other league test, 123-113, as Bob Pettit hit for 39 points at home.

The Celtics' Bob Cousy had a record 28 assists. Richie Guerin of New York had set the old standard of 21 earlier this season. Cooz also collected 31 points to follow Tommy Heinsohn's 43. Bill Sharman showed 29 points for 29 minutes.

Wage Of Records

Lost in the maze of records were 14 points and 11 rebounds by baseball spring training fugitive Gene Conley who swished hook shots with both hands, K. C. Jones' six field goals for six tries and Jim Loscutoff's first half defensive job on Lakers' rookie Elgin Baylor (two field goals.)

Boston tried 143 field goals, made 72. Both were records. It was a gaudy 50.3 per cent.

The teams together averaged 6 points a minute. Their combined 312 points bettered the previous high of 282 by St. Louis and Syracuse. They also combined for most points in a half (165) and in one quarter (96).

Minneapolis had to console itself with the fact that no losing team ever scored so many points.

Weak rebounding, particularly in the first half, proved fatal to the Gettysburg College basketball team Friday evening when the Bullets dropped a 67-53 decision to Wagner at Staten Island, N. Y.

During the first half the Bullets captured but 10 rebounds and only one off the offensive board as the Seahawks led the entire way.

Wagner got off to a 6-0 lead in the opening minutes and from then on maintained a lead of between eight and 11 points, holding a 38-27 halftime margin.

The Hawks tallied the first five points of the second half and the closest Gettysburg could come was nine points with about five minutes of play remaining.

The winners out-rebounded Gettysburg 41-34.

Warfel Gets 18

Del Warfel led the scoring for the Hulton-men with 18 points. Walt McGowan and Frank Grzelecki added 12 and 11, respectively.

Harold Junta, 6-6 junior, spearheaded Wagner's offense with 22 and 6-4 Fred Blackwell tabbed 12.

JENKINS NEARS THIRD WORLD SKATE TITLE

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—Wiry Dave Jenkins of the United States is over the big hurdle and breezing downhill today on the trip to his third straight men's world figure skating championship.

"I'm over the hump when I've finished the school figures," said the weary 22-year-old medical student.

MANTLE SIGNS FOR $80,000

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) Carrying a fat $80,000 contract in his wallet and wearing a wide, toothy grin Mickey Mantle today predicted he will have a big year.

"I know I have matured a great deal," said the slugger as he prepared to start his ninth spring training season with the New York Yankees. "I used to worry each spring whether I'd have a good year or not. I don't worry any more. I feel much more sure of myself. I'm confident I'm going to have a big year...if I'm not hurt.

"There's nothing wrong with me physically. I feel very good."

Mantle said he weighed 195 pounds, the same weight with which he finished the 1958 season when he batted .304, drove in 97 runs and led the American League with 42 home runs.

Mickey said he was setting his 1959 sights on a .330 batting average, 100 runs batted in and 50 homers.

FIERCE PRIDE OF CHAMPION SHINES FRIDAY

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The fierce pride of a champion was never better demonstrated than by shotput champion Parry O'Brien at the University of Southern California Friday.

The world record holder was one of hundreds watching when the sensational Trojan freshman, Dallas Long, got off a heave of 63 feet 4 inches in a dual meet against a junior college.

That's two inches better than O'Brien's official record, and although there was no chance of Long's mark being accepted because of the inadequacies of the Trojan practice field on which the meet was held, O'Brien accepted it—as a challenge.

While others surged around the 18-year-old giant from Phoenix, Ariz., O'Brien slipped unnoticed into the dressing room. When he returned, he was wearing his track suit.

The shot put event was over—Long having bested the second-place man by 23 feet—and O'Brien took a few warm-up tosses.

Then the 27-year-old former Trojan put his heart, his powerful muscles and his pride into one tremendous effort. The shot sailed 63 feet 6 inches. The king was still king.

"I Had To Do It"

O'Brien, now a bank employe, viewed the dramatic duel calmly. "Well," he said, "I had to do it. What would people think?"

Quite understandably, O'Brien was impressed by the youth who threatens to take over the field he has dominated so long.

"He looked very good," said Parry. "And he's got too much strength to go anywhere but up. I just hope I can fight him off for another year or two, but it's going to take some doing."

O'Brien and Long may clash officially for the first time next Saturday in an AAU meet. Long is entered, but O'Brien hasn't decided whether he will compete.

Cleveland Blanks Providence 5-0

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A 31-year-old veteran and a 20-year rookie grabbed off the headlines in the American Hockey League last night.

Fred Glover, in his 11th AHL season, scored two goals as Cleveland shutout Providence 5-0 to become the second man in the league history to score 300 goals. The two gave him an even 300, 19 short of the record established by Fred Thurier, one of the officials in the Cleveland-Providence game.

Bill Hicke ran his consecutive-game scoring streak to nine, two shy of the record, when he sent Rochester off in front against the pace setting Buffalo Bisons. The Bisons, however, struck back for two goals in the third period and the game ended in a 3-3 deadlock when neither team could tally in the overtime.

Hicke's goal was his 37th of the season and the 83rd point for the league's leading scorer.

There were only two games Friday night.

Mount Laces Baltimore; Meets American Tonight For M-D Championship

Mt. St. Mary's and American University advanced to the championship game of the Mason-Dixon Conference basketball tournament by taking victories in the semi-finals Friday evening at Catholic University, Washington, D. C.

Jim Phelan's fast stepping Mount aggregation has now won eight of its last nine games. In American they will be opposing a team who defeated them twice during regular season play. Last year American won the tourney by defeating the Mount who had won four straight championships.

Savage, Sheing Star

Jerry Savage and Bert Sheing were again the big guns for Mt. St. Mary's with 34 and 27 points, respectively.

Early in the first half the score was deadlocked at 8-8 but from then on the Mount was on top, most of the time by a comfortable margin. Savage connected for 23 points in the first half as the Blue and White led 49-40 at halftime.

The Mount lead rocketed in the second half and late in the game Baltimore fought desperately to secure possession of the ball with the inevitable fouling which enabled the Phelman-men to utilize the foul line to great advantage. It was a season high scoring mark for the Mountaineers.

Tonight's title game will be at 8:30 o'clock.

SCORTICHINI SEEKS BIG BOUT

NEW YORK (AP)—"He's ready to fight the best and we're going to try and match him with either Gene Fullmer or Spider Webb."

So said Harry Markson, general manager of boxing at Madison Square Garden, after undefeated Gene (Ace) Armstrong scored a near-shutout over Italian middleweight champion Italo Scortichini in the big arena Friday night. It made Armstrong's record 17-0.

The rangy, 27-year-old middleweight contender from Elizabeth, N.J., was judged a 9-1 winner in rounds by all three of the officials.

Markson said that Webb, the No. 3 contender from Chicago, was a more likely opponent for a May fight in the Garden since Fullmer, the No. 2 challenger, injured his right hand a week ago. The NBA rates Armstrong fourth while Ring has him 10th.

"Either one is OK with me," said Armstrong. "My job is fighting. And if I can fight the top-ranking guys, all the better. It will mean more money. The main thing is that I want to keep busy."

Armstrong was the 4-1 favorite at ring time. He weighed 161, Scortichini 157⅞.

RON DELANY SEEKS RECORD THIS EVENING

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Ron Delany goes after his 30th straight indoor mile victory tonight and it could be the one in which the fabled 4-minute board dream becomes a reality.

Delay will toe the mark in a special during the IC4A Track and Field Chamionships in Madison Square Garden.

The past two years, Delany, Ireland's Olympic 1,500-meter champion, has helped Villanova to the team championship. But Ron and most of the other Wildcats of '57 and '58 have been graduated.

Scramble For Title

Jumbo Jim Elliott's outfit isn't conceded much of a chance of making it three in a row. Instead, most coaches think the scramble for the team title will be the most wide open in many a year.

Delany has a made-to-order field for record-breaking purposes. Only last week he lowered the world indoor mark to 4:02.5 in a bulky field. This time, there are just four others trying to beat him.

The two opponents he must watch the closest are Hungary's Istvan Roszavolgyi, a member of the 4-minute club outdoors, and Lt. Bill Dillinger of the U.S. Air Force, who lowered the world indoor 2-mile and 3-mile records in three weeks.

Runs Against Clock

It was Rozy who pushed Delany to the new standard last week. The skinny Hungarian runs strictly against the clock and by his own admission likes to break the record for any race he's in.

Dellinger is more of a distance man, but he is no slouch at the mile as evidenced by his 3:41.5 in the 1,500 meters—the fastest at the distance ever recorded by an American.

The other two entries in the special are Phil Coleman, Delany's personal pacemaker the past two years, and Paul Schmidt of Germany.

LEADS VETS AT BATON ROUGE

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — John McMullin, a crew-cut kid of 23, matched his two-stroke lead against a tough, veteran field today in the second round of the $15,000 Baton Rouge Open Golf Tournament.

Bunched at 68 were Bob Goalby, Belleville, Ill.; Paul Harney, Worcester, Mass., and Mike Souchak, Grossingers, N.Y., while Dave Thomas, London, England, and Bert Weaver, Beaumont, Tex., each had 69.

Although 23 players registered better than par 72 over the rain-soaked 6,450-yard Baton Rouge Country Club course, it was McMullin who really took it apart.

The youngster stroked a nifty 33, three-under-par on the front nine, then stepped up the pace for a 32 coming home.

Defending champion Ken Venturi of Palo Alto, Calif., was four strokes over par after the first six holes, but snapped out of it for two birdies and a 74, two strokes above par but nine behind McMullin.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actress Audrey Hepburn, who fractured two vertebrae when thrown from a horse last month, flies back to Durango, Mexico, today.

She will resume work on "The Unforgiven" after a week's rest there.

Boston Tops Minneapolis 173-139; Maze Of Records

BOSTON (AP)—Boston 173, Minneapolis 139 and records galore.

In the most prolific scoring exhibition in the 13-year history of the NBA, Boston's Eastern division champions rewrote the record book Friday at Boston Garden. Even the losers got their share of marks.

Boston bettered the record for most points in a game, in one half (90) and in one quarter (52) without the services of its great center, Bill Russell.

St. Louis, holder of the previous single game point mark of 146, whipped Syracuse in the only other league test, 128-113, as Bob Pettit hit for 39 points at home.

The Celtics' Bob Cousy had a record 28 assists. Richie Guerin of New York had set the old standard of 21 earlier this season. Cooz also collected 31 points to follow Tommy Heinsohn's 43. Bill Sharman showed 29 points for 29 minutes.

Wage Of Records

Lost in the maze of records were 14 points and 11 rebounds by baseball spring training fugitive Gene Conley who swished hook shots with both hands, K. C. Jones' six field goals for six tries and Jim Loscutoff's first half defensive job on Lakers' rookie Elgin Baylor (two field goals.)

Boston tried 143 field goals, made 72. Both were records. It was a gaudy 50.3 per cent.

The teams together averaged 6 points a minute. Their combined 312 points bettered the previous high of 282 by St. Louis and Syracuse. They also combined for most points in a half (165) and in one quarter (96).

Minneapolis had to console itself with the fact that no losing team ever scored so many points.

START DRILLS IN AMERICAN LEAGUE TODAY

By JIM KENSIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

Mickey Mantle starts working out with the New York Yankees at St. Petersburg, Fla. Jackie Jensen begins training with the Boston Red Sox at Scottsdale, Ariz. And Ted Williams, who winters in Florida, is expected at Scottsdale for his first workout.

This powerful trio shared the league's three major hitting titles last season. Williams had a batting average of .328, Mantle hit 42 home runs and Jensen batted in 122 runs. And Jackie, who belted 35 homers and had a .286 average, picked up the Most Valuable Player award in the process.

Mantle Gets $40,000

Mantle, the MVP in 1956 and 1957, signed with the Yankees Friday for $80,000, ending a two-day holdout.

Jensen, a teammate of Mantle on the 1951 Yankees, also agreed to terms Friday, but for only half as much, $40,000.

It has been a decade since Williams carried off the MVP award but he signed recently for more than Mantle and Jensen combined. His salary is a reported $125,000.

Other new signees included Preston Ward, Kansas City and Gus Zernial, Detroit.

SPARTANS MAY WIN FIRST BIG TEN CAGE TITLE

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Michigan State, still toddling around in knee pants by conference standards, can win its first undisputed Big Ten basketball championship tonight along with the coveted spot in the NCAA tournament that goes to the victor.

The Spartans are only in their eighth season of play in the conference. Two seasons ago they finished in a tie for first with Indiana.

It's the same Indiana team that is standing in the way of Michigan State this time. But the Spartans are favored.

If the Spartans had to wait 9 years for their first championship, they need not be concerned.

Started In 1906

The conference started a yearly race in 1906. It was 1925 before Ohio State won the crown for the first time outright. It was 1927 for Michigan, 1931 for Northwestern and Indiana didn't come out on top all by itself until 1953.

And just in case Michigan State (9-2) stumbles against Indiana (6-6), the Spartans will be a virtual certainty to win the title Monday when they engage Wisconsin (1-10).

The Southern, Pacific Coast and Yankee conference titles also can be determined tonight. The favorite in the Southern, as usual, is West Virginia, which has won the crown for the past four years.

Post-season Tourney

The Southern Conference winner is decided in a post-season tournament and the Mountaineers go against The Citadel in the final in Richmond. But West Virginia had a tough time turning back William and Mary, 85-82, in the semifinals Friday night. The Citadel edged George Washington, 53-52.

California can wrap it all up in the PCC by downing Washington State in its third game of the week. The Bears licked Southern California Friday night 70-64 to move within a whisper of their coal. Washington kept its slim hopes alive by beating Idaho 74-51.

Clinch Tie

As for the Yankee Conference, Connecticut will sit back and watch the progress of the Rhode Island-Massachusetts game. The Uconns already have clinched a tie and if Massachusetts wins this one, they are in. Otherwise, the Uconns and Rhode Island settle matters next Wednesday.

Dartmouth had a golden opportunity to win the Ivy League championship Friday night. But Princeton had other ideas and crushed the Hanover Indians 84-67. It was the first league defeat dealt to Dartmouth, the defending champions, and ended Dartmouth's 15-game winning streak.

Capacity Crowd Watches Delone Spank Gettysburg In Cage Season's Finale

The Gettysburg High Warriors and Delone Squires dropped the curtain on their 1958-59 basketball season with the Squires' taking the final contest, 56-38, Friday evening on the McSherrystown court before a capacity crowd.

The Warriors under head coach George Forney dropped their eighth game in a row to register a 5-15 record for the season. On the other hand the win broke a three-game losing streak for Coach John Flaherty's Squires' to give them a 10-14 slate for the year.

The Squires' were out to avenge a 41-36 setback handed them earlier in the season by Gettysburg. Tommy Crist opened the game with a set shot, but Mike Staub followed with a jump from the right side. John Gastley then put the Squires' ahead for the remainder of the game with a jump shot from the foul circle. Gettysburg stayed close behind on the foul shots of Mike Small and Bob Furney while Gastley was landing a trio of charity tosses for the home team. Paul Gebhart matched Crist on two-pointers and with two minutes in the initial frame, Dan Miller and Gastley tallied lay-ups. Bob Furney dunked a corner jump shot on the buzzer and Delone led 13-8 after a slow start on the part of both teams.

The Warriors came flying back in the second frame on a corner jump by Sid Weikert and a push shot by Hardy Nichols, but then things came to a stand-still for the visitors. Delone went on to tally 17 points while the only other Warrior goal came on Small's push from the right side. At intermission the Squires were out in front 30-15.

Both teams netted a low nine points each in the third quarter. In the final period Gettysburg began to hit their mark and match the opponents shot for shot, but by this time Delone had built up a strong lead.

Bob Furney and Mike Small each accounted for 10 of the Warriors' points. John Gastley played one of his top games as he led the Delone scoring with six goals and six for six fouls for 18 points. Paul Gebhart and Jim Keffer tallied 11 and 10. Gettysburg was top team from the foul line with 10 out of 12 shots.

Coach Bob Nicholson's Gettysburg reserves had little trouble in disposing of the Delone JV's as they crushed the home team 50-32 in the preliminary contest. After a close first period in which the little Warriors took a 10-8 lead, Gettysburg began to built a substantial lead under the defensive work of Roger Ecker and Greg Maitland and the scoring of Don Waddel, Howie Miller and Terry Hise. Waddel, Hise and Miller turned out to be the game's top scorers with 13, 11, and 10 points respectively. Don Hartlaub landed nine for the Squires'.

Firemen Asking Early Start On Parade Floats: The committee of the Gettysburg Fire company in charge of festivities here July 1, 2, 3 and 4 celebrating the 96th anniversary of the Battle of Gettysburg today urged countians and others to begin consideration of ideas for floats to appear in a parade during the period.

James Sneeringer, chairman of the committee said "other communities have distinguished themselves by the type and quality of floats that appear in parades on dates sacred to those communities. We can do the same here. The battle, the battlefield, the National Cemetery, Lincoln the first heir, the county's history, all can be used as basic themes for floats. With the cooperation of the community the finest parade in history could be put on here as part of the celebration of the 96th anniversary of the battle."

County Women Divided On Whether Houses Should Be Cleaned Twice A Year: Adams county rural residents have not as yet made up their minds whether the old fashioned 'twice a year general housecleaning should be abolished.

That is the finding reported in the annual report of Miss Mary Jane Mickey, county home economics extension representative.

At nine different meetings, at which 95 women took part, the question: "Is It Necessary to Housecleaning Twice A Year?" was debated, the report shows. The sessions ended with those arguing in the affirmative still more than ever convinced that the entire house should be "torn apart" spring and fall in a general housecleaning. Those who opposed maintained that housecleaning throughout the year is sufficient and that the days of turmoil and upheaval surrounding the traditional "housecleaning" should be relegated to the limbo of the past.

Today's Talk

HOW I READ A BOOK

Reading a book is an experience that wraps itself all about me. I travel about the world, visit habits and forms of life that have gone through the changes of centuries. The large majority of books are about people, for they make up a book's scenery.

Books fascinate me. I like new books that I have never read. There is a certain glory in their bright jackets and there often is a warmth to a good book that is evident the moment you open its first pages. Some day I am going to write some Talks and comment on the unique dedications of different books I have bought many a book just because I liked the dedication.

I never skip pages in a book that I am reading. Not even one to learn what will happen later. When I come across unusual expressions I mark them with a pencil for later review. I get my group of characters in my mind as soon as they appear. Then I talk with them and take the introduction of the author as he acquaints me with each one. Many I learn to love — and some I could never like. Some authors take their pet characters around with them, and some are put into a later novel. I don't object. I learn more about each author.

I don't read in bed. I go to bed to sleep, but I often like to have a beloved book near me on a stand or close to where I write. I always feel happy knowing such a fine book is in the world, and near me. I feel sad when I run into a book that has been abused — pages torn out, and otherwise damaged. A book is a person to me. I like to get the thought of an author, and I like fine writing, like the prose of Lafcadio Hearn and the poetry of Robert Frost. I like to read books that I easily remember.

Just Folks

HELPFULNESS

If you have made another smile
Upon his weary way today,
If only for a little while
You've chased another's gloom away,
If you have met upon the road
A brother, limping and distressed,
And helped him with his heavy load,
Then you have earned your night of rest.

If you have smoothed another's brow
And by your labors made him glad,
If only words of yours, somehow,
Have cheered a toiler who was sad,
Tonight, if just because of you
Hope lives within a brother's breast,
Think not of what you failed to do;
You still have earned your time of rest.

PRR Awaits PUC Rule On 4 Trains

HARRISBURG (AP) — The Pennsylvania Railroad today awaited a Public Utility Commission order on its plans to eliminate four passenger trains between Philadelphia and Pittsburgh for economy reasons.

Vlad Greenough, vice president and chief counsel for the railroad, pleaded the railroad's case at a commission hearing here.

"In view of the enormous passenger deficit which was 44 million dollars last year, it seems obvious that the service must be tailored to meet public demand and our costs," Greenough said.

He said the commission "has carried and complied completely and fully with a State Supreme Court order regarding passenger service in the state."

62 PASSENGERS ON BUS ROBBED

RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — Two bandits pulled an Eastern version of the old Wild West stagecoach holdup Friday. They collected $655 at gunpoint from 62 people on a commuter bus from New York.

The pair posed as passengers. When the bus emerged from the Lincoln Tunnel under the Hudson River one of them sprang at the front and his driver Julius Nagy. "I knew it was going to be a holdup."

As the bus rolled along on Rt. 3 the other bandit moved from the rear with a brown duffle bag, picking up the collection among the passengers, some of them cheering in the aisle.

"He skipped some of the people in the excitement. I guess because of the stampede," Nagy said.

None of the riders spoke. None moved except to reach for wallet or purse. It was over in 10 minutes.

The pair fled at Wheaton Ave. here and Nagy called police. He has disappeared.

There were no service stations handy where Nagy could phone police, so he drove the bus to the De Camp Bus Co. garage in Clifton, two miles away.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.) said Friday the Senate has little choice about extending the peacetime draft law for another four years.

As chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, Russell opened three days of public hearings, starting Tuesday. The extension bill was passed 381-20 by the House on Feb. 5. The present law expires July 1.

"There is a stark necessity for continuing the law if we are to stay in the game of power politics with Soviet Russia," Russell said in an interview.

Eddie Scoleri Gets Life Imprisonment

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Joseph E. (Eddie) Scoleri, 22, was sentenced to life imprisonment Thursday by a divided three-judge court for the $18 holdup-murder of Max Gordon, a South Philadelphia novelty shop owner.

Judges Eugene V. Alessandroni and Charles L. Guerin approved life imprisonment, but Judge Joseph Sloane favored the death penalty.

Scoleri's brother, Anthony, 29, was convicted by a jury last Nov. 26 and sentenced to death in the electric chair. He is appealing the conviction.

SAYS BRITON PUT CHILL ON SOVIET TALKS

By RONALD THOMSON

MOSCOW (AP) — First Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan has implied Prime Minister Macmillan is to blame for putting the chill on British-Soviet talks by taking a "tough line" on Germany.

Mikoyan said Friday night that if the West does not arrange a peace treaty with Germany and settle the Berlin issue the Soviets will sign a separate pact with East Germany. The Western powers do not recognize the Communist East German state.

Give Up Hope

Macmillan told his Soviet hosts at a dinner in Kiev Friday night that the Soviet Union must negotiate with an honest desire for fair agreement if it really wants peace.

But sources close to the British delegation said Macmillan has just about given up hope of bringing East and West closer together on the Berlin crisis in view of Khrushchev's uncompromising stand.

The Soviet Premier attacked the West Tuesday and turned down a Western call for a foreign ministers' conference on Germany.

17-STORY FALL MINOR WORRY

He is emotionally disturbed, doctors say. They believe the condition existed before the plunge, but say the fall might have made it worse.

The youngster will be given mental tests. He has been in a hospital, recovering from broken bones and internal injuries suffered in the 139-foot fall on Feb. 17.

The boy, one of eight children in the family of Baker Luther Bell, either jumped or fell from a bedroom window of the family's apartment in a housing project in Manhattan.

He had been sent to the bedroom as punishment for having taken 25 cents, without permission, to buy potato chips. A few moments later his 12-year-old sister Edith scream: "Jimmy went out the window."

Police, noting that the boy has poor eyesight, listed the plunge as an accident.

Wants Less Talk On Berlin Crisis

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Everett M. Dirksen (R-Ill) underlined the potential gravity of the Berlin crisis Friday by pleading for less talk on Capitol Hill while President Eisenhower weighs "the hour-to-hour developments."

Dirksen, the Senate's Republican leader and chief administration spokesman, cautioned in an interview against headline-making speeches or any hasty action that might affect critical negotiations.

Renewed tension over the Berlin situation exploded in the Senate Thursday with Democratic demands for a stepped-up defense program and for alerting the people to any eventuality — including the possibility of a shooting war.

Adding to the apprehension were the uncompromising tone of recent speeches by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and the apparent lack of any favorable results in Khrushchev's Moscow talks this week with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan. The talks ended Thursday with British reports that neither side was giving an inch.

3rd Youth Found Guilty In Slaying

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—"They were all yelling 'hit him, hit him,' so I did. I hit him with a blackjack and he fell down."

This was the testimony of 16-year-old Leonard Johnson Thursday shortly before a panel of three judges found him guilty of first degree murder and sentenced him to life imprisonment for the slaying of In-Ho Oh, a Korean graduate student at the University of Pennsylvania.

The judges were Charles L. Guerin, Francis Brown Jr. and Peter F. Hagan.

Johnson was the third of nine boys to be tried and convicted for the fatal beating of Oh last April 25 on a West Philadelphia street.

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Police ringed the funeral parlor Thursday night to hold back the curious as family and friends paid last respects to Abner (Longie) Zwillman, 54, the man called king of the New Jersey underworld.

Zwillman's years of crime, violence and a belated quest for respectability came to an end Thursday. He hanged himself in his mansion in suburban West Orange.

The Life Of Christ

He Drives The Money-Changers From The Temple

Jesus went up on the side of the mountain, and with Him trudged the Twelve. There He gave them the power to heal the sick, the lame, the crippled, the blind and He gave them power to cast out devils. He charged the Twelve with their responsibility in having this power, and there on the mountain He gave them their first and most important lesson as men who would carry His word to the ends of the earth.

"Blessed are the poor in spirit," Jesus said, "for theirs is the kingdom of heaven. Blessed are the meek and gentle, for they will inherit the land. Blessed are the sorrowing, for they will be consoled. Blessed are those who hunger and thirst after holiness, for they will be fully satisfied. Blessed are the merciful, for they will have mercy shown to them. Blessed are the singlehearted, for they will see God.

"Blessed are the promoters of peace, for they will rank as children of God. Blessed are the victims of persecution for conscience sake, for theirs is the kingdom of heaven. Blessed are you when you are reviled, or persecuted, or made a target for nothing but malicious lies — for My sake. Rejoice; yes, leap for joy; a rich reward awaits you in heaven.

"Do not think it My mission to annul the Law of the Prophets," Jesus said, looking intently at the Apostles. "It is not My mission to annul but to fulfill. I assure you emphatically: before heaven and earth pass away, not a single letter or one small detail will be expunged from the Law — no, not until all is accomplished. Whoever, therefore, breaks one of these least commandments and instructs his fellow men to do likewise, will be of lowest rank in the kingdom of heaven. He, on the contrary, who both observes and inculcates them will win high distinction in the kingdom of heaven. Yes, let Me tell you: if your religion is not very much better than that of the scribes and Pharisees, you will not enter the kingdom of heaven."

RAIL WORKERS ENDING STRIKE

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Railway workers trickled back to their jobs Friday, ending a strike that paralyzed more than two - thirds of Mexico's rail transportation.

The first of the 60,000 striking workers began showing up at station and yards at 9:30 a.m. That was the hour set Thursday night when union leaders and officials of the government-owned railroads reached agreement giving the workers an average 4 per cent raise and medical and housing benefits.

Service was not immediately resumed. Trains were expected to get rolling later in the day.

There were no signs of jubilation among the workers, who settled for much less than they demanded. Newspapers generally hailed the settlement as a victory for the government.

Union head Demetrio Vallejo had predicted all men would be back on the job by 9:30 a.m. Some returned Thursday night to put the yards in order.

NEW YORK (AP) — Negotiations for a Hollywood cosmetics firm to take over the Mutual Broadcasting System have broken off.

A joint announcement by the firm, Max Factor & Co., and the radio network said today the talks have been called off, the parties being unable to arrive at an agreement.

Routine Check Of Milking Machine, Other Equipment On Farm Advised By Agent

By FRANK S. ZETTLE
Adams County Farm Agent

Prudent, foresighted farmers are making a winter check-up of their farm machinery. Using winter spare time to good advantage and avoiding repair - making delays in busy seasons are marks of good management.

Frank S. Zettle

Check all machines for broken, loose, or defective parts and make repairs before another season's use. Machines need to be cleaned, rust-proofed where necessary, and exposed wood and metal parts painted. This is particularly true of machines not sheltered in buildings.

Clean and remove canvases, drapes and belts and put in dry, safe shelter, where they cannot be damaged by weather or rodents. Pack bearings and other moveable parts with proper lubricants. Otherwise moisture can cause them to rust, corrode, or "freeze." Remove batteries from power equipment and keep them properly charged. Jack up rubber tired machinery.

Drain the radiators and cylinder blocks of engines or protect them with anti-freeze and rust-preventive materials. Lubricate valves and pistons to head off corrosion. Make immediate arrangements to have precision equipment, engines, and motors checked over in the shops of machinery dealers so there will be no last-minute rush or waiting next spring.

Regular Abuse

One of the most used and abused pieces of machinery on our dairy farms is the milking machine unit. Take time some day, when the temperature drops around zero, to look over the milking machine unit, and pay particular attention to the following:

Check lubrication. About four times a year remove old oil from the vacuum pump, put kerosene in its place, run the machine a few minutes, drain kerosene, and put in oil recommended by the manufacturer. Check rubber connectors to prevent electrical shocks. Check belt tension, and be sure there's no more than one inch of play in the belt.

Do not clog the exhaust in any way. The machine won't operate properly if the exhaust is not fully open. Be sure to open up a stall cock before starting the motor, and stop it with a stall cock open.

Check and clean pulsators often.

Clean vacuum lines at least three or four times each year, or whenever milk has gone through the line, when the milking machine pail is knocked over, or when the pail was too full.

Check and clean rubber, and stanchion hose. Provide an auxiliary power supply to be used in emergency.

Produce In Six Months

Today's high producing pullets, properly grown and matured, will as a flock average 50 per cent production at six months of age. When they are eight to nine months of age 50 per cent of the eggs will classify as large to extra large. Among strains there will be variation in age at 50 per cent production and 50 per cent large eggs.

Spread in wholesale prices between large and medium eggs is usually greatest from July to December, so flocks producing heavily and laying a high per cent of large eggs were most profitable. These profitable birds were hatched the preceding fall.

Price spread between large and medium eggs is least early in the year. This is when late spring or summer hatched pullets are coming into production and producing the smaller sizes. As the spread begins to widen during the summer egg size increases, so then birds will be laying the higher priced eggs.

He visited London, Parish, Zurich, Rome, Madrid and Lisbon. His only connection with sports on the trip was as a spectator at a Madrid soccer game where 125,000 fans turned out for an exhibition. Bob paid $6 for his seat.

Fewer Turkey Breeding Hens

There are fewer turkey breeder hens on Pennsylvania farms this year than last, the state Department of Agriculture said today.

Heavy breed turkey hens on Pennsylvania farms on January 1 totaled 47,000, down eight per cent from the 51,000 on hand last year, according to a survey by the Pennsylvania Crop Reporting Service. There has been an average of 51,000 heavy hens on Pennsylvania farms on January 1 during the past 10 years.

Light breed hens remain the same as last year's estimate of 5,000.

Nationally, breeder hens on farms January 1 totaled 3,659,000 compared with 3,410,000 a year earlier — an increase of seven per cent. Heavy breed turkey hens were estimated at 3,057,000 compared with 2,960,000 the previous year an increase of three per cent. Light breed hens are up by about 34 per cent.

FEWER COWS, LAYING HENS ON PA. FARMS

The Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture today pointed out that 317 million eggs were produced in the state during January and that milk production totaled 528 million pounds. However, there were some 10,000 fewer milk cows on farms than there were a year ago and the number of laying hens on farms reached the lowest level since 1942.

A state Crop Reporting Service tabulation shows that the average number of layers on hand during January was 13.3 million, down about one per cent from January 1958. There were about 923,000 dairy cows on farm during the same month.

Production per cow in January averaged 572 pounds of milk, making it the second high January on record, the high being established a year ago with an average of 574 pounds of milk per cow.

Price-cost relationships in both egg and milk production remained at approximately the same levels as in December.

Chick Production Off In January

The state Department of Agriculture today listed total production of chicks during January at 7,609,000. Broiler-type production, comprising 58 per cent of the total, was down six per cent, while egg-type production, comprising 42 per cent of the total, was up two per cent.

The Pennsylvania Crop Reporting Service reports that smaller February hatches than a year ago in the Middle Atlantic States, Pennsylvania, New York and New Jersey, are in prospect. Broiler-type eggs in incubators on February 1 in these states were nine per cent lower than a year earlier while egg-type settings were down by 10 per cent.

National production of chicks during January was up eight per cent and exceeded the 1953-1957 average by 36 per cent. While the national February hatch of egg-type chicks is expected to be smaller than last year, the hatch of meat-type birds is expected to increase.

Modern Living In The "Wilkins"

Rooms	Five
Bedrooms	Two
Closets	Nine
Cubage	36,000 ft.
Dimensions	70' x 32'

Today, the "Home of the Week Plan Service" brings you the "Wilkins" a bright cheery ranch-style home for modern living. It's a home ideal for the growing family with sleeping and living areas ideally separated for maximum comfort and convenience. All rooms are off the central hallway which means rooms not in use will not collect the dust of passing traffic.

Bright Exterior

The house should be painted a light, eye-catching color in order to express the feeling of sunniness which the "Wilkins" imparts. The jalousies on the porch, the brightly-hued awnings, and the planters in which may be placed multi-colored flowers carry out the same theme. The front entrance, flanked by twin wrought iron banisters, opens directly into the living room and, to the right is a convenient entrance to the den. The living room itself is of generous proportions with many windows for sunshine and light. There is room for furniture groupings and bookcases. The location of the fireplace and the front windows afford interesting subjects for imaginative decoration.

The Necessary "Extra Room"

Today's living necessitates an home, a room to be used as library, a den, a music room or a TV or play room. The proportions of the den in the "Wilkins" allows it to be put to good use in any of these ways or even as an extra bedroom if the size of the family warrants it. The cabinet - TV area that appears in the blueprints may or may not be included in the original contruction of the house. The "extra room" provides a comfortable and livable retreat for every member of the family.

Two Bedrooms

The proportions of the master bedroom are twelve feet eight inches by fifteen feet. It occupies a pleasant corner of the house with three good-sized windows and two large closets. The smaller bedroom offers the advantages of double closets and again, three windows for air and light. Conveniently located between the two bedrooms lies the modern bathroom. The "Wilkins" provides ample storage space for linens in two closets — one located in the bathroom for towels, washcloths and other accessories to be found easily at hand, the other directly across the hall from the bathroom.

A main feature of the "Wilkins" is the availability of closet space. In addition to the two linen closets and the broomcloset in the kitchen, there are six clothes closets — four in the bedrooms and two in the halls. A great convenience is the closet in the front hall which will accommodate the outer clothing of the family as well as the hats and coats of guests.

Cheerful Kitchen

The kitchen of the "Wilkins" has four large windows which will allow sunshine into the days of the housewife who spends a good deal of her time in this room. There is ample counter space and a wall oven, and a convenient dining area — all of which make these hours pass more quickly and easily for her. The dimensions of the room, eleven feet eight inches by twenty feet, allow easy access to the utilities in the kitchen area as well as comfort in the dining area.

Immediately around the corner from the kitchen lies the porch which will grant many pleasant summer evenings to the family. The privacy made possible by its location as well as its proximity to the kitchen, will undoubtedly encourage the consuming of lunch or dinners here in warmer weather. The jalousies on the porch will make it equally enjoyable in the winter months.

Every feature of the "Wilkins" is designed to make this Home of the Week very tempting to the discriminating home builder.

Blueprints Available

Complete plans for the "Wilkins" and other houses in this series are available.

Send requests for the house desired to: Home of the Week, Inc., Dept. S, 87 Weybosset St., Providence 3, R. I. Plans will be sent C.O.D. A complete Home Owner's kit and Contractor's kit will be included at no extra cost.

Recipe For Glue Calls For Whiskey

She said the recipes were little different from today but the miscellaneous section was a startler. Among the suggestions to aid the housewife was a recipe for making mending cement.

It called for water, powdered glue, white lead and whisky. The whisky it explained, was to keep it fluid in cold weather.

The Weeders Guide

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

CHAPPAQUA, N. Y. — For the winter-weary, for the virus-bored, there are a number of ways in which to stimulate spring until pleasant weather comes once more.

We forced sprays of yellow forsythia in January and white plum blossoms in February. Now we have brought inside the hyacinths we potted last fall and buried in the coldframe.

The African violets bloomed valiantly all through the winter, the Christmas cactus made a brilliant touch of color — not for Christmas, but during the next two months. The red begonias and the pink geraniums were most satisfactory. And to fill in, there were occasional inexpensive purchases of cut flowers from the local florist — chrysanthemums which last and last, earlier in the winter, and spring bouquets — daffodils, tulips, iris — from February on.

Annual Rite

And of all activities deliberately designed to make winter pass more quickly, number one on my list is the annual rite of making out the seed order. This is a thoroughly enjoyable chore, reached only after considerable study, but fraught with financial peril.

Seed and plant catalogues start arriving shortly after the first of the year. At that time I read through them with the concentration given a detective story and just about as impersonally.

Then comes a study period. I gather together the garden plans from other years — the chart of my perennials is most important at this phase — and read over last year's garden diary which contains, among other items, notes about last season's plants and flowers, my satisfaction and dissatisfaction with colors, varieties, size of plants and growing habits. With this, plus pencil, large sheet of paper and the catalogues, I construct a plan for what I hope will be my next season's garden.

It is always somewhat difficult to make an important change in the established garden. Over the years, one adds so many perennials, plants so many bulbs, puts in so many special favorites that it is almost impossible to do anything really radical without digging up a lot of plants already growing well. In making out my seed list I make a temporary list first — noting down everything which catches my fancy: new varieties, improvements on old favorites, new colors of tried and true favorites, and then, of course, the good old standbys. The temporary list is large enough to plant about two acres of garden.

Then I cut down the list in an attempt to be realistic. I'm fond of small flowers, for instance, so there will be the miniature zinnias, marigolds, alyssum, ageratum and the like on my list as always. But this year, I'll also get seed of some of the new, varieties — maybe the new big marigolds, to plant for background where I've used such old favorites as snapdragon, cosmos and calendula in other years.

Writing a seed list is a very personal chore, and one which takes time and imagination. The big danger is in ordering too many different kinds of seed and in buying in too large quantities.

Here's The Answer

QUESTION: I have heard of many different ways to achieve an antique finish on wood, but none of them parallels a method my late grandfather used to employ. All I can remember about it is that he mixed a powder with water and then applied the mixture to the wood with a sponge. There was no rubbing, shading or anything like that. Can you tell me anything about this?

ANSWER: It is quite probable that your grandfather used potassium permanganate powder, which you can buy in most drug stores. One part of powder to about ten parts of water is the proper mixture. When applied, the mixture causes a chemical change in the wood that gives it an aged effect. I suggest you try it first on a piece of scrap wood to be sure the result is what you are trying to achieve.

QUESTION: I have just finished plastering a wall. How long must the plaster be allowed to dry out before painting?

ANSWER: Three or four weeks should be sufficient time. Professionals use a moisture meter in case of doubt. Try striking a match against the wall. If it does not light, the chances are drying has not been completed. You can, if you wish, put on a coat of latex paint, which allows evaporation to continue until the wall is completely dry. Later, if you wish, you can apply one or more coats of oil-based paint.

QUESTION: Many years ago a friend of mine built a playroom out of a plywood called gabon. I want to build a similar room, but no lumber yard I have gone to knows anything about any such wood. Can you help me?

ANSWER: The wood you are referring to was known as gaboon, a hardwood from Equatorial Africa. Some years back it began to be known as samara wood and you probably can get it now by that name.

Routine Check Of Milking Machine, Other Equipment On Farm Advised By Agent

By FRANK S. ZETTLE
Adams County Farm Agent

Prudent, foresighted farmers are making a winter check-up of their farm machinery. Using winter spare time to good advantage and avoiding repair - making delays in busy seasons are marks of good management.

Frank S. Zettle

Check all machines for broken, loose, or defective parts and make repairs before another season's use. Machines need to be cleaned, rust-proofed where necessary, and exposed wood and metal parts painted. This is particularly true of machines not sheltered in buildings.

Clean and remove canvases, drapes and belts and put in dry, safe shelter, where they cannot be damaged by weather or rodents Pack bearings and other moveable parts with proper lubricants. Otherwise moisture can cause them to rust, corrode, or "freeze." Remove batteries from power equipment and keep them properly charged. Jack up rubber tired machinery.

Drain the radiators and cylinder blocks of engines or protect them with anti-freeze and rust-preventive materials. Lubricate valves and pistons to head off corrosion. Make immediate arrangements to have precision equipment, engines, and motors checked over in the shops of machinery dealers so there will be no last-minute rush or waiting next spring.

Regular Abuse

One of the most used and abused pieces of machinery on our dairy farms is the milking machine unit. Take time some day, when the temperature drops around zero, to look over the milking machine unit, and pay particular attention to the following:

Check lubrication. About four times a year remove old oil from the vacuum pump, put kerosene in its place, run the machine a few minutes, drain kerosene, and put in oil recommended by the manufacturer. Check rubber connectors to prevent electrical shocks. Check belt tension, and be sure there's no more than one inch of play in the belt.

Do not clog the exhaust in any way. The machine won't operate properly if the exhaust is not fully open. Be sure to open up a stall cock before starting the motor, and stop it with a stall cock open.

Check and clean pulsators often.

Clean vacuum lines at least three or four times each year, or whenever milk has gone throu the line, when the milking machine pail is knocked over, or when the pail was too full.

Check and clean rubber, and stanchion hose. Provide an auxiliary power supply to be used in emergency.

Produce In Six Months

Today's high producing pullets, properly grown and matured, will as a flock average 50 per cent production at six months of age. When they are eight to nine months of age 50 per cent of the eggs will classify as large to extra large. Among strains there will be variation in age at 50 per cent production and 50 per cent large eggs.

Spread in wholesale prices between large and medium eggs is usually greatest from July to December, so flocks producing heavily and laying a high per cent of large eggs were most profitable. These profitable birds were hatched the preceding fall.

Price spread between large and medium eggs is least early in the year. This is when late spring or summer hatched pullets are coming into production and producing the smaller sizes. As the spread begins to widen during the summer egg size increases, so then birds will be laying the higher priced eggs.

From U. S. Baseball To Madrid Soccer

NEW YORK (AP)—Bob Fishel, public relations director for the New York Yankees, went from the World Series to Europe for a four-week vacation with his mother, Mrs. O. J. Fishel. He visited London, Parish, Zurich, Rome, Madrid and Lisbon. His only connection with sports on the trip was as a spectator at a Madrid soccer game where 123,600 fans turned out for an exhibition. Bob paid $6 for his seat.

Fewer Turkey Breeding Hens

There are fewer turkey breeder hens on Pennsylvania farms this year than last, the state Department of Agriculture said today.

Heavy breed turkey hens on Pennsylvania farms on January 1 totaled 47,000, down eight per cent from the 51,000 on hand last year, according to a survey by the Pennsylvania Crop Reporting Service. There has been an average of 51,000 heavy hens on Pennsylvania farms on January 1 during the past 10 years.

Light breed hens remain the same as last year's estimate of 5,000.

Nationally, breeder hens on farms January 1 totaled 3,659,000 compared with 3,410,000 a year earlier — an increase of seven per cent. Heavy breed turkey hens were estimated at 3,057,000 compared with 2,960,000 the previous year an increase of three per cent. Light breed hens are up by about 34 per cent.

FEWER COWS, LAYING HENS ON PA. FARMS

The Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture today pointed out that 317 million eggs were produced in the state during January and that milk production totaled 528 million pounds. However, there were some 10,000 fewer milk cows on farms than there were a year ago and the number of laying hens on farms reached the lowest level since 1942.

A state Crop Reporting Service tabulation shows that the average number of layers on hand during January was 18.3 million, down about one per cent from January 1958. There were about 923,000 dairy cows on farm during the same month.

Production per cow in January averaged 572 pounds of milk, making it the second high January on record, the high being established a year ago with an average of 574 pounds of milk per cow.

Price-cost relationships in both egg and milk production remained at approximately the same levels as in December.

Chick Production Off In January

The state Department of Agriculture today listed total production of chicks during January at 7,609,000. Broiler-type production, comprising 58 per cent of the total, was down six per cent, while egg-type production, comprising 42 per cent of the total, was up two per cent.

The Pennsylvania Crop Reporting Service reports that smaller February hatches than a year ago in the Middle Atlantic States, Pennsylvania, New York and New Jersey, are in prospect. Broiler-type eggs in incubators on February 1 in these states were nine per cent lower than a year earlier while egg-type settings were down by 10 per cent.

National production of chicks during January was up eight per cent and exceeded the 1953-1957 average by 36 per cent. While the national February hatch of egg-type chicks is expected to be smaller than last year, the hatch of meat-type birds is expected to increase.

State Workers In Franklin Called For Interviews And Applications For Work

WAYNESBORO, Pa. (AP)—The threat of dismissal today hung over 675 state employes from Franklin County unless they submit to personal interviews with Democratic leaders about party contributions and registering new voters.

C. F. Minehart, 90-year-old Democratic County chairman and former legislator, sent the workers new job application blanks with a letter and asked them to bring them along for the interviews.

"Your failure to cooperate in this matter will be deemed by the executive committee as intention on your part to discontinue your employment," said the letter.

The Waynesboro Record Herald said in a published story that the state workers, most of them employed at the Samuel G. Dixon Hospital at Mont Alto, were being maced for $3.50 to $9 a month on the installment plan.

"Illegal Practice"

Macing is an illegal practice requiring a public employe to contribute to a political party under penalty of dismissal.

At Harrisburg, George I. Bloom, Republican state chairman, described the incident as "clearly the beginning of a macing plan for Franklin County and probably is being carried out in other Democratic counties."

Sen. Joseph M. Barr, Democratic state chairman, said:

"I see nothing wrong if he (Minehart) is asking for a voluntary contribution."

He made the comment from Washington where he is attending a Democratic National Committee meeting. Barr promised to look into the matter upon returning to Harrisburg next week.

Gov. Lawrence, also in Washington, was unavailable for comment. He has said previously he would not require state workers to be responsored to stay in their jobs.

FIELD OF TEN IN FLAMINGO

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — With 10 horses entered and 35,000 persons expected, Hialeah Park took every precaution today against a possible repetition of incidents which last year marred the 29th running of the rich Flamingo Stakes.

It will be First Landing against the field in today's mile and a furlong.

Going against the 4-5 choice will be Troilus, Eurasia, Easy Spur, Open View, Moony, Rico Tesio, Scotland, Rare Rice and Manassa Mauler.

Outriders on the track will be in walkie-talkie contact with stewards and any jockey claiming foul will tell the outrider, who will relay word to the stewards.

That should cut short the long delay that followed last year's Flamingo when Calumet Farm's Tim Tam and Maine Chance Farm's Jewel's Reward staged a bumping duel in the stretch. Tim Tam was named winner and Jewel's Reward was dropped to second, reversing the order of finish.

West Chester Leads In M. A. Swim Meet

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP) — Defending champion West Chester piled up 32 points in six events for a slim early lead in the Middle Atlantic swim trials last night at Franklin & Marshall College.

Lehigh pressed the Rams with 31 points. La Salle and Dickinson, both of whom were counted on for some rough competition, trailed with 15 and 13 points respectively.

Lehigh placed first in three of the six trials. Dave Thorne's victory in the 200-year backstroke gave him the Granam Trophy. His time was 2:19.5. The other Lehigh first places were won by Martin Maloney in the 200-yard butterfly and Paul Abramson in the 200-yard breaststroke.

Paul Barren of West Chester won the 220-yard freestyle and the Rams' took another first when its team won the 400-yard freestyle relay event.

West Is Nearing Top Cage Scorer

West Virginia's Jerry West tallied 38 points Friday night and moved up a notch in the individual scoring standings of the major college basketball players.

West's performance as the Mountaineers edged William & Mary and qualified for the finals of the Southern Conference tournament, boosted his average to 25.6 points a game and seventh place, according to figures of the NCAA Service Bureau.

Backs Department In Pollution Case

HARRISBURG (AP)—The State Sanitary Water Board Friday backed Health Department orders against the discharge of cyanide wastes by a Williamsport firm into a Susquehanna River tributary.

The order was issued against the Glyco Chemical Corp. which the board said has been sending industrial wastes into Daugherty Run.

Cyanide wastes in any amount are among the chemical poisons which may not be discharged in any stream under the Commonwealth's Anti-pollution Law.

NEWSPAPER BUYS BUILDING OF ITS RIVAL

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The evening St. Louis Post-Dispatch will print the editions of its rival morning Globe-Democrat after a Newspaper Guild strike at the Globe is settled, both papers announced Friday.

Both dailies said the Post, owned by the Pulitzer Publishing Co., has bought the Globe-Democrat building and its mechanical equipment. The price was not disclosed. The Globe is owned by S. I. Newhouse, publisher of a chain of newspapers.

The Globe will move to another building, not yet chosen.

The Post plans to move its news and business offices and presses into the Globe building as soon as the Globe finds other quarters and the strike is over.

Newer, More Modern

The Post building is newer and more modern but the newspaper has long been cramped. At one time the Post planned to construct a new building on the western edge of St. Louis but abandoned that idea.

It will combine its presses with the best ones in the Globe building and print both papers, becoming in effect a job printer for the Globe.

The two papers are five blocks apart on the same street in downtown St. Louis. In between, a block from the Globe, is the old Star-Times building which is largely unoccupied.

4 Killed When Helicopter Hits A Transmission Wire

CONOWINGO, Md. (AP)—Four men were killed yesterday when a helicopter developed engine trouble, tangled with a transmission wire and crashed near the Conowingo Dam.

Police quoted a witness as saying the helicopter apparently developed engine trouble over the river and tried to make for a landing when it hit the transmission line.

A Philadelphia Electric spokesman said the engineers were on a routine inspection flight. They were surveying a possible site for a new transmission line from the dam to Peach Bottom in York County, Pa., the proposed site of an atomic energy plant.

PRIEST USES GARDEN HOSE TO FIGHT FIRE

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A priest used a garden hose today in a vain attempt to halt a fire that swept through St. John the Baptist Church and parish house in nearby McKees Rocks.

The Rev. Vladimir Pashkowsky, pastor of the Ukrainian Orthodox church, was shaving in the 2-story brick parish house when someone ran in and said smoke was pouring out of the church, a brick and stone building.

The priest entered the church and found flames near the sacristy. He then tried to fight it with a garden hose. His 28-year-old son, Bohdan, said:

"It looked as if he was making headway, but then the flames got into the attic where there was dry wood, and it was hopeless."

Not only did she enjoy her work with the hospital and her associations there, but she also had a special private reason for wishing the success of the local hospital. One of her sons was stricken with an acute attack of appendicitis prior to the construction of the Gettysburg hospital. He was rushed to Chambersburg, then the nearest hospital, but death ensued. Had there been a hospital here at that time, his life might have been saved.

Her husband, the late P. M. Mishler, died August 14, 1922. Of her two sons, one, Richard, died in 1917, the other, Robert, died in 1928 in China. She was a daughter of the late Charles and Anna (Middlekauff) Evans and was born August 2, 1864.

Surviving are a brother, Walter S. Evans, Chicago, and a number of nieces including Mrs. Louise Leverton, Silver Spring, Md., and Mrs. Martha Clagett, Chatham, N. J.

Funeral services Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Bender Funeral Home with the Rev. Robert A. MacAskill officiating. Interment in Evergreen Cemetery. Friends may visit Sunday evening from 7 to 9 o'clock at the funeral home.

Congressman Green Freed Of Conspiracy Charges

By BILL GIBSON

LEWISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Rep. William J. Green Jr. (D-Pa), acquitted in a government conspiracy case held today that his indictment and trial were inspired by politics.

Green and two others were found innocent by a jury of seven men and five women which took less than three hours before giving verdicts to Judge Frederick V. Follmer in U. S. District Court yesterday.

Afterward Green, Philadelphia Democratic city chairman and one of Pennsylvania's most powerful political leaders, said in a prepared statement:

"This entire proceeding has been a four-year endeavor by the national administration in power to harass and embarrass me, and has had every aspect of political persecution."

Charged With Fraud

Green, John P. Gilboy, former Scranton engineer, and Frederick J. Raff, Hartford, Conn., contractor, had been charged with conspiring to defraud the government. The charges were in connection with construction of the 33 million dollar Army signal corps depot at Tobyhanna, Pa., near Scranton.

Mounting emotions broke with a flurry of excitement when the verdicts were announced. Judge Follmer had to restore order in the court before finishing the formalities of closing the session.

"Endured Anguish"

"There is no recompense for the anguish I have endured, although this was tempered in large measure by undeviating support of a great host of friends and well-wishers whose actions—and prayers—reflected an abiding faith in my integrity," Green said, adding:

"I now shall go forward with the full activities of my congressional office and continuing direction of the Democratic party in Philadelphia."

Gilboy and Raff declined to comment as did prosecutor Oliver Dibble.

Four other men originally charged with participating in the alleged conspiracy were acquitted earlier by Follmer. They were: Joseph Rochez, East Pittsburgh excavating contractor; John B. Kemmel, Philadelphia painting contractor; Robert Brown, Merchantville, N. J., general construction contractor, and Herbert J. McGlinchey, former Philadelphia Democratic congressman.

Testimony from 73 witnesses and arguments from a battery of attorneys were recorded in some 2,500 pages of court files during the seven-week trial.

Yank Skipper

"Routine Story"

Moscow Radio, in a newscast to the Soviet people, tended to treat the boarding as a routine story. It quoted Adm. Jerauld Wright, commander of the U.S. Atlantic Fleet, as saying, "The skipper of the Soviet trawler showed a friendly attitude and acted in a cooperative spirit and that nothing was found to show any other object than fishing."

Cmdr. Ernest J. Korte of U.S. Navy radar picket ship Roy O. Hale, who sent the party aboard the Soviet trawler, said the cable breaks ocurred in about 175 fathoms of water about 180 miles due east of Cape Bonavista, Nfld.

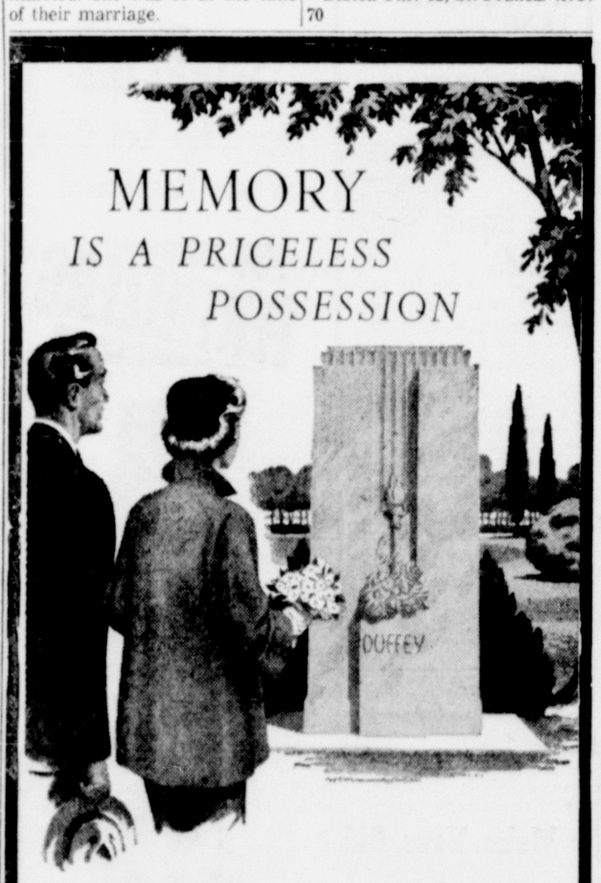

Radioman 3.C. Roland A. Poulin of Chicopee, Mass., who acted as interpreter for the five-man boarding party, said the trawler's journal "indicated she had been operating in the area where the cable was broken.

Sheely said, "I believe it definitely possible and probably quite likely the trawler had something to do with breaking the cables—I don't know whether accidentally or intentionally."

FREE MAN IN WIFE'S DEATH

NORRISTOWN, Pa. (AP) —Montgomery County Judge Morris Gerber acquitted 36-year-old Theodore Pienta Friday on a murder charge which stemmed from the death of Pienta's wife, Jeannette.

Judge Gerber said the prosecution had failed to prove Pienta caused his wife's death. On two earlier occasions, Pienta was freed on habeas corpus petitions which claimed the prosecution had insufficient evidence.

RAIN AND SNOW HIT SOME AREAS

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Spotty rainfall and a snow belt, continuing reminders of a topsy-turvy winter season, dampened the whiff of spring-like weather over much of the nation today.

Another day of sunshine also was the outlook in the South, triggering 60 to 80 degree readings.

Shower activity was prevalent along the South Atlantic Coast. Jacksonville, Fla. was sprayed with 1.46 inches Friday.

Light rain also dotted the Pacific Northwest.

TO TAKE PICTURES

The Fairfield schools have notified parents that pupils will have their pictures taken next Monday and Tuesday. The elementary pupils' photos will be taken Monday.

Mrs. Pienta died in 1957 in Phoenixville Hospital of a brain hemorrhage. Dr. Manuel Bergnes, hospital pathologist, said there were no bruises, cuts or discolorations on the dead woman's head or body. "I cannot say she did not die of natural causes," he declared.

DEMS TO HOLD CONVENTION IN LOS ANGELES

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Democratic party's decision to hold its 1960 convention in Los Angeles appeared likely to move California's Gov. Edmund G. Brown into a kingmaker role in the presidential nominating contest.

The committee voted 71-36 Friday to hold its nominating convention in Los Angeles. Chicago and Philadelphia members fought this decision in an acrimonious five-hour session of the group but lost by votes ranging from 66-37 to 67-39.

Brown will get an early chance to display himself to the convention delegates in a welcoming speech. It was with just such a speech that Adlai E. Stevenson brought the house down in the 1952 Chicago convention that later nominated him for president.

Not Serious Candidate

Probably nobody in California thinks that Brown is a serious candidate. But as a favorite son he can control California's powerful convention vote on the first ballot. After that he can attempt to throw the state's important delegation behind another candidate.

With the convention site settled, the Democrats turn their attention to a $100-a-plate victory dinner here tonight. Two Texans, Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon Johnson and House Speaker Sam Rayburn, will be the main speakers.

Party Gets $750,000

Camille F. Gravel Jr. of Louisian, who headed the site subcommittee, said the party would get about $750,000 in benefits from Los Angeles.

The convention will open July 11, 1960, in the Los Angeles Arena which is now 80 per cent complete. The air-conditioned arena will seat 22,400.

Plans call for seating the 3,500 delegates on the main floor, with spectators and the press on the two tiers of seats rising around it.

STATE MAN DIES IN CRASH

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—Michael J. Hudicka, 45, of Collingdale, Delaware County, Pa., was identified Friday as one of four men reported killed in a light plane crash near here.

The wreckage of the plane, missing since Wednesday on a flight from Melbourne, Fla., was discovered by the Civil Air Patrol about 25 miles southeast of here.

The plane, making a routine 60-mile flight to Orlando, was ordered to turn back Wednesday night because of a severe rainstorm. That was the last heard from the craft.

One of the four was an officer at Patrick Air Force Base and the other three, including Hudicka, were civilian employes.

Hudicka was an administrative liaison officer. He and his wife had been living in Collingdale for about six years.

RAIN AND SNOW HIT SOME AREAS

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Spotty rainfall and a snow belt, continuing reminders of a topsy-turvy winter season, dampened the whiff of spring-like weather over much of the nation today.

Another day of sunshine also was the outlook in the South, triggering 60 to 80 degree readings.

At least 2 inches of fresh snow, dropped in a 6-hour overnight period, blanketed an area from northeastern Minnesota through parts of Wisconsin to northern Michigan.

Shower activity was prevalent along the South Atlantic Coast. Jacksonville, Fla. was sprayed with 1.46 inches Friday.

Light rain also dotted the Pacific Northwest.

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Democratic party's decision to hold its 1960 convention in Los Angeles appeared likely to move California's Gov. Edmund G. Brown into a kingmaker role in the presidential nominating contest.

The committee voted 71-36 Friday to hold its nominating convention in Los Angeles. Chicago and Philadelphia members fought this decision in an acrimonious five-hour session of the group but lost by votes ranging from 68-37 to 67-39.

Brown will get an early chance to display himself to the convention delegates in a welcoming speech. It was with just such a speech that Adlai E. Stevenson brought the house down in the 1952 Chicago convenion that later nominated him for president.

Not Serious Candidate

Probably nobody in California thinks that Brown is a serious candidate. But as a favorite son he can control California's powerful convention vote on the first ballot. After that he can attempt to throw the state's important delegation behind another candidate.

With the convention site settled, the Democrats turn their attention to a $100-a-plate victory dinner here tonight. Two Texans, Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon Johnson and House Speaker Sam Rayburn, will be the main speakers.

Party Gets $750,000

Camille F. Gravel Jr. of Louisian, who headed the site subcommittee, said the party would get about $750,000 in benefits from Los Angeles.

The convention will open July 11, 1960, in the Los Angeles Arena which is now 80 per cent complete. The air-conditioned arena will seat 22,400.

Plans call for seating the 3,500 delegates on the main floor, with spectators and the press on the two tiers of seats rising around it.

STATE MAN DIES IN CRASH

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—Michael J. Hudicka, 45, of Collingdale, Delaware County, Pa., was identified Friday as one of four men reported killed in a light plane crash near here.

The wreckage of the plane, missing since Wednesday on a flight from Melbourne, Fla., was discovered by the Civil Air Patrol about 25 miles southeast of here.

The plane, making a routine 60-mile flight to Orlando, was ordered to turn back Wednesday night because of a severe rainstorm. That was the last heard from the craft.

One of the four was an officer at Patrick Air Force Base and the other three, including Hudicka, were civilian employes.

Hudicka was an administrative liaison officer. He and his wife had been living in Collingdale for about six years.

State Workers In Franklin Called For Interviews And Applications For Work

WAYNESBORO, Pa. (AP)—The threat of dismissal today hung over 675 state employes from Franklin County unless they submit to personal interviews with Democratic leaders about party contributions and registering new voters.

C. F. Minehart, 90-year-old Democratic County chairman and former legislator, sent the workers new job application blanks with a letter and asked them to bring them along for the interviews.

"Your failure to cooperate in this matter will be deemed by the executive committee as intention on your part to discontinue your employment," said the letter.

The Waynesboro Record Herald said in a published story that the state workers, most of them employed at the Samuel G. Dixon Hospital at Mont Alto, were being maced for $3.50 to $9 a month on the installment plan.

"Illegal Practice"

Macing is an illegal practice requiring a public employe to contribute to a political party under penalty of dismissal.

At Harrisburg, George I. Bloom, Republican state chairman, described the incident as "clearly the beginning of a macing plan for Franklin County and probably is being carried out in other Democratic counties."

Sen. Joseph M. Barr, Democratic state chairman, said:

"I see nothing wrong if he (Minehart) is asking for a voluntary contribution."

He made the comment from Washington where he is attending a Democratic National Committee meeting. Barr promised to look into the matter upon returning to Harrisburg next week.

Gov. Lawrence, also in Washington, was unavailable for comment. He has said previously he would not require state workers to be responsored to stay in their jobs.

FIELD OF TEN IN FLAMINGO

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — With 10 horses entered and 35,000 persons expected, Hialeah Park took every precaution today against a possible repetition of incidents which last year marred the 29th running of the rich Flamingo Stakes.

It will be First Landing against the field in today's mile and a furlong.

Going against the 4-5 choice will be Troilus, Eurasia, Easy Spur, Open View, Moony, Rico Tesio, Scotland, Rare Rice and Manassa Mauler.

Outriders on the track will be in walkie-talkie contact with stewards and any jockey claiming foul will tell the outrider, who will relay word to the stewards.

That should cut short the long delay that followed last year's Flamingo when Calumet Farm's Tim Tam and Maine Chance Farm's Jewel's Reward staged a bumping duel in the stretch Tim Tam was named winner and Jewel's Reward was dropped to second, reversing the order of finish.

West Chester Leads In M. A. Swim Meet

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP) — Defending champion West Chester piled up 32 points in six events for a slim early lead in the Middle Atlantic swim trials last night at Franklin & Marshall College.

Lehigh pressed the Rams with 31 points. La Salle and Dickinson, both of whom were counted on for some rough competition, trailed with 15 and 13 points respectively.

Lehigh placed first in three of the six trials. Dave Thorne's victory in the 200-year backstroke gave him the Granam Trophy. His time was 2:19.5. The other Lehigh first places were won by Martin Maloney in the 200-yard butterfly and Paul Abramson in the 200-yard breaststroke.

Paul Barren of West Chester won the 220-yard freestyle and the Rams' took another first when its team won the 400-yard freestyle relay event.

West Is Nearing Top Cage Scorer

West Virginia's Jerry West tallied 38 points Friday night and moved up a notch in the individual scoring standings of the major college basketball players.

West's performance as the Mountaineers edged William & Mary and qualified for the finals of the Southern Conference tournament, boosted his average to 25.6 points a game and seventh place, according to figures of the NCAA Service Bureau.

Bob Boozer of Kansas State was above his average in scoring 29 points against Kansas but dropped to eighth with a 25.5 average. They were the only members of the top 10 in action.

Backs Department In Pollution Case

HARRISBURG (AP)—The State Sanitary Water Board Friday backed Health Department orders against the discharge of cyanide wastes by a Williamsport firm into a Susquehanna River tributary.

The order was issued against the Glyco Chemical Corp. which the board said has been sending industrial wastes into Daugherty Run.

Cyanide wastes in any amount are among the chemical poisons which may not be discharged in any stream under the Commonwealth's Anti-pollution Law.

NEWSPAPER BUYS BUILDING OF ITS RIVAL

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The evening St. Louis Post-Dispatch will print the editions of its rival morning Globe-Democrat after a Newspaper Guild strike at the Globe is settled, both papers announced Friday.

Both dailies said the Post, owned by the Pulitzer Publishing Co., has bought the Globe-Democrat building and its mechanical equipment. The price was not disclosed. The Globe is owned by S. I. Newhouse, publisher of a chain of newspapers.

The Globe will move to another building, not yet chosen.

The Post plans to move its news and business offices and presses into the Globe building as soon as the Globe finds other quarters and the strike is over.

Newer, More Modern

The Post building is newer and more modern but the newspaper has long been cramped. At one time the Post planned to construct a new building on the western edge of St. Louis but abandoned that idea.

It will combine its presses with the best ones in the Globe building and print both papers, becoming in effect a job printer for the Globe.

The two papers are five blocks apart on the same street in downtown St. Louis. In between, a block from the Globe, is the old Star-Times building which is largely unoccupied.

4 Killed When Helicopter Hits A Transmission Wire

CONOWINGO, Md. (AP)—Four men were killed yesterday when a helicopter developed engine trouble, tangled with a transmission wire and crashed near the Conowingo Dam.

The helicopter, carrying three power company employes and the pilot, burst into flames on ice at Hopkin's Cove, about one-half mile north of the dam. The dam crosses the Susquehanna River in Northeast Maryland.

Police quoted a witness as saying the helicopter apparently developed engine trouble over the river and tried to make for a landing when it hit the transmission line.

A Philadelphia Electric spokesman said the engineers were on a routine inspection flight. They were surveying a possible site for a new transmission line from the dam to Peach Bottom in York County, Pa., the proposed site of an atomic energy plant.

PRIEST USES GARDEN HOSE TO FIGHT FIRE

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A priest used a garden hose today in a vain attempt to halt a fire that swept through St. John the Baptist Church and parish house in nearby McKees Rocks.

The Rev. Vladimir Pashkowsky, pastor of the Ukrainian Orthodox church, was shaving in the 2-story brick parish house when someone ran in and said smoke was pouring out of the church, a brick and stone building.

The priest entered the church and found flames near the sacristy. He then tried to fight it with a garden hose. His 28-year-old son, Bohdan, said:

"It looked as if he was making headway, but then the flames got into the attic where there was dry wood, and it was hopeless."

The priest removed the Sacred Host, but he, his wife and son lost most of their personal belongings.

Fire Chief Thomas Cairns estimated the damage at about $100,000. Police said the blaze apparently was caused by defective wiring.

Not only did she enjoy her work with the hospital and her associations there, but she also had a special private reason for wishing the success of the local hospital. One of her sons was stricken with an acute attack of appendicitis prior to the construction of the Gettysburg hospital. He was rushed to Chambersburg, then the nearest hospital, but death ensued. Had there been a hospital here at that time, his life might have been saved.

Her husband, the late P. M. Mishler, died August 14, 1922. Of her two sons, one, Richard, died in 1917, the other, Robert, died in 1928 in China. She was a daughter of the late Charles and Anna (Middlekauff) Evans and was born August 2, 1864.

Surviving are a brother, Walter S. Evans, Chicago, and a number of nieces including Mrs. Louise Leverton, Silver Spring, Md., and Mrs. Martha Ciagett, Chatham, N. J.

Funeral services Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Bender Funeral Home with the Rev. Robert A. MacAskill officiating. Interment in Evergreen Cemetery. Friends may visit Sunday evening from 7 to 9 o'clock at the funeral home.

Congressman Green Freed Of Conspiracy Charges

By BILL GIBSON

LEWISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Rep. William J. Green Jr. (D-Pa), acquitted in a government conspiracy case held today that his indictment and trial were inspired by politics.

Green and two others were found innocent by a jury of seven men and five women which took less than three hours before giving verdicts to Judge Frederick V. Follmer in U. S. District Court yesterday.

Afterward Green, Philadelphia Democratic city chairman and one of Pennsylvania's most powerful political leaders, said in a prepared statement:

"This entire proceeding has been a four-year endeavor by the national administration in power to harass and embarrass me, and has had every aspect of political persecution."

Charged With Fraud

Green, John P. Gilboy, former Scranton engineer, and Frederick J. Raff, Hartford, Conn., contractor, had been charged with conspiring to defraud the government. The charges were in connection with construction of the 33 million dollar Army signal corps depot at Tobyhanna, Pa., near Scranton.

Mounting emotions broke with a flurry of excitement when the verdicts were announced. Judge Follmer had to restore order in the court before finishing the formalities of closing the session.

Green and his attorney, Joseph S. Lord 3rd, wiped their eyes with handkerchiefs. Several women in the courtroom cried.

"Endured Anguish"

"There is no recompense for the anguish I have endured, although this was tempered in large measure by undeviating support of a great host of friends and well-wishers whose actions—and prayers—reflected an abiding faith in my integrity," Green said, adding:

"I now shall go forward with the full activities of my congressional office and continuing direction of the Democratic party in Philadelphia."

Gilboy and Raff declined to comment as did prosecutor Oliver Dibble.

Four other men originally charged with participating in the alleged conspiracy were acquitted earlier by Follmer. They were: Joseph Rochez, East Pittsburgh excavating contractor; John B. Kemmel, Philadelphia painting contractor; Robert Brown, Merchantville, N. J., general construction contractor, and Herbert J. McGlinchey, former Philadelphia Democratic congressman.

Testimony from 73 witnesses and arguments from a battery of attorneys were recorded in some 2,500 pages of court files during the seven-week trial.

documents of ships suspected of damaging oceanic cables, intentionally or accidentally.

"Routine Story"

Moscow Radio, in a newscast to the Soviet people, tended to treat the boarding as a routine story. It quoted Adm. Jerauld Wright, commander of the U.S. Atlantic Fleet, as saying, "The skipper of the Soviet trawler showed a friendly attitude and acted in a cooperative spirit and that nothing was found to show any other object than fishing."

Cmdr. Ernest J. Korte of U.S. Navy radar picket ship Roy O. Hale, who sent the party aboard the Soviet trawler, said the cable breaks ocurred in about 175 fathoms of water about 180 miles due east of Cape Bonavista, Nfld.

Radioman 3.C. Roland A. Poulin of Chicopee, Mass., who acted as interpreter for the five-man boarding party, said the trawler's journal "indicated she had been operating in the area where the cable was broken.

Sheely said, "I believe it definitely possible and probably quite likely the trawler had something to do with breaking the cables—I don't know whether accidentally or intentionally."

"Mike was the master craftsman, never so happy as when he was batting out a big story under the gun of a deadline. The best newspaper man and the best loved man in the city room has left us. And so we say to you, Mike Berger: Hail and farewell! We shall not see your like again."

Give me a good digestion, Lord, and also something to digest.

Give me a healthy body, Lord, with sense to keep it at its best.

Give me a mind that is not bored, that does not whimper, whine or sigh;

Don't let me worry over-much about the fussy thing called I.

In 1959, the 150th anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln, Exposition Press of New York intends to publish at least three books about the Great Emanciptaor. They are: the tentatively-titled "Lincoln's Religion," "Ninety-five Years After Lincoln," and "The Constitution of Lincoln and Davis."

"Lincoln's Religion," a study of our sixteenth President's religious beliefs and superstitions, is by G. George Fox, rabbi emeritus of Chicago's South Shore Temple and the author of six previously published books.

* * *

"Ninety-five Years After Lincoln," while basically a history of the Urban League of Dayton, Ohio, contains much Lincolniana, including his farewell and second inaugural addresses, the exact Emancipation Proclamation and his pronouncements regarding capital and labor. The author is Phineas Barton Myers of Dayton.

"The Constitution of Lincoln and Davis" by Russell Hoover Quynn, retired U. S. Army and Navy officer and lawyer, now of Newport News, Virginia, is a Southerner's comparative study of Lincoln and Jefferson Davis and of the United States Constitution and the Confederate Constitution.

When all books were manuscripts, some volumes commanded very high prices. A 15th century countess of Anjou paid, for a single volume, 200 sheep and a big supply of farm produce.

Many years ago, a German professor — name of Burkman — did his best to make an indestructible book. The leaves were thin sheets of asbestos, the binding was made of thick sheets of the same material. The printing was done with real gold and silver. So, the good professor claimed, neither time nor fire could have any effect on the volume, which he called "the book of eternity."

Once upon a time, in Edinburgh, there were two printers, Colin MacFarquhar, who also sold books, and Andrew Bell, who specialized in engraving. In 1768 they began to publish the Encyclopaedia Britannica, on the title page of which they were described as "A Society of Gentlemen in Scotland." Which proves a point — that printers are not ordinary men. Two printers can be a whole society, and of upper-case gentlemen at that!

"Be Brief" says the sign in many a busy office, and perhaps two words are enough. But one of history's greatest printers, Adus Manutius (1450-1515) greeted his working-hour visitors under an inscription reading: "Whoever you are, Adus earnestly entreats you to dispatch your business as soon as possible, and then depart; unless you come to lend him some friendly aid, for here will be work enough to employ you, and as many as enter this place."

HOLD AMATEUR ROCKET SHOOT

CAMP A. P. HILL, Va. (AP)— Fifty rockets, including a three-stage affair developed by a Baltimore man, are ready for firing today during an amateur rocket shoot that has attracted enthusiasts from as far away as New England.

The rocket shoot is sponsored by the national capital section of the American Rocket Society. It will climax a 15-week course on the science of rocketry for amateur scientific groups, conducted at Ft. Belvoir.

The three-stage rocket developed by Gerd Nathan, 27-year-old native of Germany, is the first such rocket to be tested at "Little Cape Canaveral" on the Camp A. P. Hill reservation.

Nathan's rocket is 41 inches long and weighs a pound and a quarter. He said Friday the rocket is designed to reach an altitude of about 14,500 feet if the weather is right and attain a velocity of 612 m.p.h.

He hopes to market it, with amateur rocket enthusiasts as potential customers.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Frank L. Seymour, 62, chief of the contract and procurement division of the U.S. Information Agency, died of a heart attack Friday. He was a native of La Harpe, Kan.

"Mike was the master craftsman, never so happy as when he was batting out a big story under the gun of a deadline. The best newspaper man and the best loved man in the city room has left us. And so we say to you, Mike Berger: Hail and farewell! We shall not see your like again."

Give me a good digestion, Lord, and also something to digest.

Give me a healthy body, Lord, with sense to keep it at its best.

Give me a healthy mind, good Lord, to keep the good and pure in sight,

Which, seeing sin, is not appalled, but finds a way to set it right.

Give me a mind that is not bored, that does not whimper, whine or sigh;

Don't let me worry over-much about the fussy thing called I.

Give me a sense of humor, Lord. Give me the grace to see a joke.

In 1959, the 150th anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln, Exposition Press of New York intends to publish at least three books about the Great Emanciptaor. They are: the tentatively-titled "Lincoln's Religion," "Ninety-five Years After Lincoln," and "The Constitution of Lincoln and Davis."

* * *

"Lincoln's Religion," a study of our sixteenth President's religious beliefs and superstitions, is by G. George Fox, rabbi emeritus of Chicago's South Shore Temple and the author of six previously published books.

* * *

"Ninety-five Years After Lincoln," while basically a history of the Urban League of Dayton, Ohio, contains much Lincolniana, including his farewell and second inaugural addresses, the exact Emancipation Proclamation and his pronouncements regarding capital and labor. The author is Phineas Barton Myers of Dayton.

* * *

"The Constitution of Lincoln and Davis" by Russell Hoover Quynn, retired U. S. Army and Navy officer and lawyer, now of Newport News, Virginia, is a Southerner's comparative study of Lincoln and Jefferson Davis and of the United States Constitution and the Confederate Constitution.

* * *

When all books were manuscripts, some volumes commanded very high prices. A 15th century countess of Anjou paid, for a single volume, 200 sheep and a big supply of farm produce.

Many years ago, a German professor — name of Burkman — did his best to make an indestructible book. The leaves were thin sheets of asbestos, the binding was made of thick sheets of the same material. The printing was done with real gold and silver. So, the good professor claimed, neither time nor fire could have any effect on the volume, which he called "the book of eternity."

* * *

Once upon a time, in Edinburgh, there were two printers, Colin MacFarquhar, who also sold books, and Andrew Bell, who specialized in engraving. In 1768 they began to publish the Encyclopaedia Britannica, on the title page of which they were described as "A Society of Gentlemen in Scotland." Which proves a point — that printers are not ordinary men. Two printers can be a whole society, and of upper-case gentlemen at that!

"Be Brief" says the sign in many a busy office, and perhaps two words are enough. But one of history's greatest printers, Adus Manutius (1450-1515) greeted his working-hour visitors under an inscription reading: "Whoever you are, Adus earnestly entreats you to dispatch your business as soon as possible, and then depart, unless you come to lend him some friendly aid, for here will be work enough to employ you, and as many as enter this place."

Former Governor James In Hospital

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (AP) — Former Gov. Arthur H. James, 75, was reported in fair condition today in Wilkes-Barre General Hospital.

James, an attorney and former judge of the State Superior Court, was chief executive of the state from 1939 to 1943.

HOLD AMATEUR ROCKET SHOOT

CAMP A. P. HILL, Va. (AP)—Fifty rockets, including a three-stage affair developed by a Baltimore man, are ready for firing today during an amateur rocket shoot that has attracted enthusiasts from as far away as New England.

The rocket shoot is sponsored by the national capital section of the American Rocket Society. It will climax a 15-week course on the science of rocketry for amateur scientific groups, conducted at Ft. Belvoir.

The three-stage rocket developed by Gerd Nathan, 27-year-old native of Germany, is the first such rocket to be tested at "Little Cape Canaveral" on the Camp A. P. Hill reservation.

Nathan's rocket is 41 inches long and weighs a pound and a quarter. He said Friday the rocket is designed to reach an altitude of about 14,500 feet if the weather is right and attain a velocity of 612 m.p.h.

He hopes to market it with amateur rocket enthusiasts as potential customers.

Flower Show Opens Friday In Capital

The show, sponsored by the Allied Florists of Greater Washington, will have a number of features, including a Garden of Gethsemane, a religious panorama in brilliant colors.

Visitors entering the Armory will be greeted by a display of azaleas in brilliant colors. Other features are a huge rock garden with a waterfall, tulip gardens, orchid displays and a tropical display of plants and wild flowers sent by the city of Miami Beach, Fla.

There will also be displays by carnation, rose, aquarium, African violet and camellia societies. The show is open daily from 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. March 6 through 12, except the opening day when the opening ceremonies begin at 2 p.m.
